History - Gallery 312

Gallery 312 was founded in 1994 by Lewis S. and Anne Neri Kostiner. The Kostiners opened the Gallery as a nonprofit art organization in a renovated warehouse building at 312 North May Street in the Fulton Market District of Chicago, Illinois. It was the second art gallery to open in the West Loop after Paul Klein and was active for 11 years before its closing in 2005. The Gallery focused on the development of local artists and exhibited works by local and international artists alike. In the tradition of the Kostiners' photography backgrounds, many of the exhibits featured artists in the photographic medium. Notable Chicago photographers who showed there include Aaron Siskind, John Vinci, and Harry Callahan.

The activities, programming, and exhibition selections at Gallery 312 were intended to initiate dialogue on contemporary art and social issues.. Each year, "The Summer Show" exhibitions showcased artists not backed by gallery representation. Some of the artists featured in this annual show have since become well known in the art world. Tony Tasset, Mayumi Lake, Ursula Sokolowska, and Alison Ruttan have gone on to exhibit in national and international museums and festivals and featured in publications such as ArtWorld Digest and F-Stop Magazine. In the summer of 2010, Tony Tasset's "The Eye" was installed as a public sculpture in Pritzker Park at State and Van Buren Streets in the Chicago Loop. Other recognized artists who were featured at G312 include Jed Fielding, Michiko Itatani, Dawoud Bey, Esther Parada, Leon Golub, and Cindy Sherman.

Expenses for Gallery 312 were covered by Annie Properties, the Kostiner's commercial real estate company, with all the Gallery's earned revenue going to donation; half to artists participating in the exhibitions and half to a local children's charity chosen by the Kostiners to aid at risk Chicago youth.

The Kostiners founded The PEACH Club in the summer of 1996. The PEACH Club (Patience, Encouragement, Arts, Consistency, Hope) was a long-term, after-school program that met twice weekly over the course of the school year at The PEACH Club studio and five additional sites in Chicago's North, Northwest, and South Sides. Curriculum for the program was designed to foster individual growth, self-realization, and potential.

Gallery 312 showcased two annual exhibitions, "The Summer Show" and "Young At Art." The "Young At Art" exhibition featured artwork created by the youth participating in The PEACH Club. In addition, two other youth arts organizations were invited to exhibit a selection of the artwork. Throughout the program's operating years, "Young At Art" also featured work by youths from Chicago Public Schools, the Marwen Foundation, Picture This Projects, KidStART, Pros-Arts Studio, Uhlich Children's Home, Marshall Boys and Girls Club. This collection of Gallery 312's Records includes material evidence of their collaboration with the Richard E. Byrd Community Academy in Picture This Projects in December of 1999.

Gallery 312 closed in 2005 after 11 years of activity.
