Columbia Fully Accredited

PRESIDENT ALEXANDROFF announced March 27th that Columbia College has been officially granted full college accreditation by the NORTH CENTRAL ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGES AND SECONDARY SCHOOLS (this region's accrediting agency).

The President noted, "No other college so unconventional has successfully proven the validity of its unorthodoxy as to win grant of full accreditation. Nor even, has any college survived, let alone prospered, who so lacked every wealth and resource believed indispensable."

Columbia has not only just survived. But now we have overcome! Congratulations to us all.

Capital Funds Campaign for New Building

Columbia's first capital funds campaign is well underway with over $250,000 already pledged. Begun last December, the campaign is a four year effort to raise $3,500,000 for the purchase of a permanent building for the College and for funding additional College improvements and programs.

In the first three year phase of the campaign the goal is to raise $2,200,000 to acquire and remodel a building in the heart of the city at the new College headquarters. While enrollment at many liberal arts colleges has dwindled in recent years, Columbia's enrollment has increased from 150 students in 1964 to nearly 1,200 at present, making a larger facility a necessity.

"Columbia has not appealed previously for the community's support," points out Columbia President Mike Alexandroff. "We have arrived at this time on our bootstraps and shoestrings, and we have made with this a college of exemplary quality and outstanding community service. Indeed, we have probably gotten more done with originality than any college anywhere."

Columbia's capital funds campaign is enlisting the support of individuals, corporations and foundations, primarily in the Chicago area, but support of national agencies is being sought as well. The College has already received generous contributions from the Board of Trustees and from the Sun-Times Newspapers, Continental Illinois National Bank, the Sears Roebuck Foundation, the Household Finance Corporation, ABC Television, the Shell Oil Company and the Oscar Mayer Foundation, among other companies.

Board of Trustees Chairman Alfred B. Perlman.

Perlman Elected Board President

ALFRED B. PERLMAN, Vice President of Arthur Rubloff & Company, was elected Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Columbia College in March. Perlman replaces Dwight W. Follett, President of the Follett Corporation, who served as Board Chairman for five years. Follett will continue to serve on the thirty-member board.

Three new members were appointed to the Board of Trustees in March: author/educator STANTON LEGGETT, attorney STEPHEN M. NEUMER, and psychiatrist DAVID S. SOLOMON, M.D.

"The addition of these three men, each highly noted in his field, is a continuation of our effort to extend the dimensions of our board," said Chairman Perlman. "With the launching last December of a four-year $3,200,000 capital fund campaign, we are at a critical time in Columbia's development."

Leggett is President of Stanton Leggett & Associates, educational consultants in Chicago. Neumer, a partner in the law firm of Devoe, Shadur and Krupp, has been active in assisting local community organizations on Chicago's West Side to develop businesses in the community. Solomon is an attending physician at Michael Reese Hospital and maintains a private practice as well.

200 Courses Set for Fall

Alumni who attended Columbia a decade ago may recall the course listings for a semester occupying a single sheet of paper. This fall nearly 200 courses will be offered, with the schedule and course descriptions filling a 65-page booklet!

The wide range of courses offered, both practical and theoretical, would appear staggering to a student from an earlier era finding himself or herself transplanted to the modern day Columbia. Courses are offered in 14 areas: radio, television, journalism, art/graphics, contemporary studies, humanities/literature and science.

Among the offerings is a course with the tantalizing title of MAN AND WOMAN. Harry Bouras is teaching the class which promises to explore the psychological, social, sexual and political interrelation of men and women. A year-long course in HISTORY AND CINEMA: THE SILENT ERA: FROM GRIFFITH THROUGH EISENSTEIN, taught by Robert Edmonds, will be devoted to the history of the medium beginning at the turn of the century. New Photography Department Chairperson John Mulvany teaches HISTORY OF PHOTOGRAPHY STEIGLITZ TO THE PRESENT, featuring a critical approach to the history of photographic image making. Noted contemporary authors of local and national reputation will present readings each Monday evening in an English/Writing Department offering, READINGS BY CONTEMPORARY AUTHORS. Courses in the Television Department, headed by Thaine Lyman who begins his 26th year of teaching at Columbia, range from THE TELEVISION DOCUMENTARY to COMMUNICATIONS AND THE LAW.

Day, evening and Saturday classes will be offered beginning September 30. Registration begins September 16. Further information may be obtained by calling the College the College at 467-0300.

Why a Newsletter

The last Columbia College alumni newsletter was published in 1967. A seven-year silence between the College and its alumni is far too great.

Columbia's prestige has grown tremendously in recent years. Today it is a college second to none. With the impending move to a permanent building and full accreditation from North Central, Columbia is entering a new era.

Columbia needs an informed, participating group of alumni. The Alumni Newsletter is a first step.

We'd like to invite your comments which, space permitting, will be printed in subsequent issues.

WE ARE STILL TRYING TO LOCATE MANY GRADUATES. IF YOU KNOW OF ANY ALUMNI WHO ARE NOT RECEIVING THIS NEWSLETTER, PLEASE CONTACT ALUMNI SERVICES AT THE COLLEGE, 828-0944.

Mulvany Heads Photo Department

John M. Mulvany, noted photographer and former administrator of the undergraduate photography program at the University of New Mexico, has been appointed Chairperson of Columbia's Photography Department.

Effective with the start of the summer term, Mulvany took over as head of the Department from James Newberry, who will continue as a full time photography teacher at Columbia. Newberry resigned in order to have more time to devote to his own photography activities.

37-year old Mulvany received his B.S. degree from the University of Tennessee and his M.F.A. in photography from the University of New Mexico. He has served on the University of New Mexico Museums acquisitions committee, as co-director of a photography workshop at Royal Holloway College in England and as visiting lecturer in photography at Trent Polytechnic in Nottingham. Mulvany's work has been exhibited widely in both one-man and group shows throughout the country and in England.

The Photography Department, begun with a handful of students in 1965, is now recognized as one of the leading photography schools in the country. The Department has more than 400 students and twenty-three faculty members.

84th Commencement Honors Chicagoans

One hundred twenty-three students were awarded Bachelor of Arts Degrees at Columbia's 84th Commencement June 7th at the Prudential Plaza Auditorium. Chicago Attorney Albert Jenner, minority counsel for the House Judiciary Committee for the impeachment inquiry, delivered the commencement address.

This was the first Columbia commencement to honor Chicagoans exclusively. Honorary degree recipients, in addition to Jenner, were artist Ivan Albright, author James T. Farrell, dance entrepreneur Ruth Page and humanitarian-librarian Charlemae Rollins. The five were chosen as a special tribute to the talents and spirits of the people of Chicago.
