Ricky Hughey interviewing Stan Willis

RH: Alright we're recording. Ok, so this is Richard Hughey from Columbia College, here with Stan Willis. Um, today's date is-the-April the twenty (whispers) what's today's date?

SW: Fifth

RH: Twenty fifth, two thousand ten. Uh, we are in Stan's office at thirty nine south Lasalle. Um- alright let's get started. Um-(moves microphone)- Let's start with some basic questions, um- what would the years of your anti-apartheid activism be, basically in a-

SW: Uh, I would say, (coughs), well- let me frame it this way: I got involved in an anti-colonial work I would say in the seventies while I was a student at University of Chicago. And it included anti-apartheid work, but it wasn't solely anti-apartheid work cause we began to uh, become aware of these struggles that were going on in in, Mozambique, Guinea-Bissau, Namibia um- you know of course South Africa. So all of those struggles to, uh, of Africans to free themselves from colonialism, we tried to play some active part in as early as I've said in the early 70s.

RH: Ok, um and the location of your activism specifically, what would you say?

SW: Most of the Chicago area at that time-um- I would say from 69 70 up to about 79 or 80, a lot of the activities were in and around (coughs) the the university because I was a student at the University of Chicago during that time period, and I was living in Hyde Park, so things that were going on were largely coming out of student community as a student activist. I was one of the (coughs) leaders of the Organization of Black Students at the University of Chicago. And we did things you know around uh around Africa liberation generally.

RH: Ok, um now we are going to do a little bit of biographical information um starting with your year of birth.

SW: I was born in August 16th, 1941.

RH: Your place of birth.

SW: Chicago

RH: Chicago. Uh basically where you were raised?

SW: Uh Chicago's west side, I grew up on the west side (coughs), I was born on the west side I was born in the county hospital. I grew up in the west side, I went to public schools, I went to Crane High School which still exists. Um, and then I moved to the south side um when I became a student at the University of Chicago and I was staying in Hyde Park for many years.

RH: Ok um-

47 SW: O by the way I did leave after high school and went into the United States Air Force. I spent 48 four years in the air force then returned to Chicago, became a bus driver.

49
50 RH: Your father's place of birth.

51
52 SW: Uh Arkansas.

53
54 RH: Arkansas and your mothers place of birth?

55
56 SW: Also Arkansas, in and around Forrest City Arkansas.

57
58 RH: Ok, um now we are going to dive back into our memory bank starting what is your earliest 59 memory?

60
61 SW: Of anything in particular?

62
63 RW: Any anything you can remember.

64
65 SW: I think my earliest memories would be um- when I was a child we lived-until I was about 66 four- we lived on the south side in a building called the Ellis building. E-L-L-I-S. (coughs), it
67 was somewhere around thirty five hundred thirty six hundred south on Ellis. So it was near um 68 Hyde Park. It was a little, little north of Hyde Park. (Coughs) and this building was a high rise-
69 um I think- and I don't know how I know this, probably somebody told me but I think it was an 70 eight floor high rise and we were on one of the top floors. And it was close enough to the lake
71 shore drive where I looked out the window and I could see cars going by and the cars looked like 72 they were about the size of- ants. And I remember I was so fascinated by seeing these things
73 movin around and I was just, so I had to be- two three or four years old. And I remember I
74 remember cause I was kinda, I think I was just kinda in awe and curious about being that high
75 above whatever else was goin on down on the ground. (Click)

76
77 RH: So you're pretty far south but still pretty far east, cause if you could see the-

78
79 SW: It was yea it was pretty far east. It wasn't that far south I mean thirty thirty some hundred 80 south yea but it wasn't that far. It wasn't as far as Hyde Park which is the fifty hundreds. But I 81 remember that it was pretty fascinating to me as a child seein the-

82
83 RH: Right. Um how would you describe the house you grew up in, or apartment I guess?

84
85 SW: The apartment? Well the one that I remember most was when we moved to the west side.
86 Uh we moved I guess I was four or five, we moved to the near west side- um- near Ashland and 87 Roosevelt, which is now ya know gentrified. Um, I think the hospital complex has you know
88 kinda grabbed up all the land so it's a whole gentrified area now. But when I grew up it was a 89 working class black community. Probably a low working class black community. Um we lived in 90 a basement apartment in the in the- the building was owned by a cousin and we lived in a
91 basement apartment. It was a little, lil bungalow but there was a basement apartment. It was a 92 very small apartment. Uh we had two small bedrooms, a living room, no dining room and a

93 kitchen. And um- it was a you know mom and dad would I was an only child for many years, my 94 sister was born when I- uh- when I turned- seven. I was in my seventh year when she was born
95 so I am seven years and some months older than my sister. So I was the only child for several 96 years at least seven then my sister was born. And um- I you know I was responsible for taking 97 care of her as she got older you know she's my baby sister which is drag.

99 RH: Ha

100
101 SW: Um, and the neighborhood- uh I went to church a lot as a child, my mom insisted and I kind 102 of enjoyed it. Um- I also spent a fair amount of time in Paducah, Kentucky because theres my 103 mother has a sister there and she would ship me off to spend time with my aunt and her husband.
104 And I enjoyed it, he was a, he was a pastor of a church so I (cough) I became a pastor's son
105 during that part of the year that I spent with them, which was probably- five six seven eight you
106 know I was very young. Uh and then as I grew up the, I began to meet uh some other boys in the 107 neighborhood, probably at age ten and eleven you know before I really kinda began to stretch out
108 a little bit. And uh you know gangs began to emerge and I was a member of a gang- and we had 109 gang fights- and um some of them were pretty violent-um- (clears throat). You know but I went 110 to school because my mom and dad insisted that I go to school and come home at a certain time.
111 Other other moms and dads, some of the kids didn't have a dad in the house, but I did. And my 112 mom and dad were, ya know great moms and dads you know, they were not disciplinarians but 113 they kept pretty strict control over me-um- but then not enough to keep me from being a member
114 of a gang. And so it was good you know I mean some battles I lost- uh- one friend in particular 115 was killed in a gang kind of conflict, shot to death. I think I was probably about twelve, thirteen, 116 maybe fourteen you know, I remember that very well.

117 I also remember-the murder of Emmet Till. I was 12 and I think Emmet Till was twelve 118 and I remember vividly because it was ah probably the most talked about event throughout the 119 entire African American community during that time, but more importantly I remember it, I
120 remember it because my mother was a friend of his grandmother, they went to church together, 121 and my mother new his mother. And so it brought it closer to home, and I remember it also 122 because my sister who was probably four or five-um- my dad made the mistake of taking her 123 with him, cause he would take her with him all the time, that was she was a daddy's girl- he took 124 her with him to, to the wake. And you know it was an open casket kind of wake and you know,
125 she was horrified. And it impacted me because she I guess she learned that this kid who was so 126 brutally um beaten and murdered was the same age as her brother. So she would get very uh-
127 very uh afraid when I was out after dark. So it began to restrict my activities because my mom
128 made me come home because my sister would be crying in the evenings so I wasn't too happy 129 about that.

130 So but it was generally, you know it was a nice a, I enjoy it, my growing up in reflection
131 was very positive.

132
133 RH: So you and your sister were pretty close?

134
135 SW: Yea we still are. She works here occasionally part time. Uh we had two other, my mom had 136 two other children where I had two younger brothers you know after my sister. And we all we 137 are a pretty close family. My mom and dad have passed but the siblings are very close.

139 RH: So uh I sorta have to ask um, why what were the main reasons you would say you kinda got 140 into, got into the gangs around your neighborhood.

142 SW: (clears throat) The gangs kind of emerged um- as part of young boys kinda hanging out you 143 know just like they do now; there are certain kids that for whatever reason enjoy hangin out with 144 each other, you know everybody has friends. And- sometimes those groups would be hangin out 145 or they would have, I could remember having these baseball games with other kids, and 146 sometimes the tensions of the baseball games would spill over and then there would fights and 147 arguing about you know was he safe on first base or not. And um if somebody let's say for 148 example let's say it's a baseball game, if there's a fight and this group of kids lives some place
149 else and theres a fight, then you got something that's going to resemble a certain group
150 cohesiveness in relation to this other group. And so that began to be gang rivalry because then 151 you couldn't go into their neighborhood because you've had a fight with them and, nah I don't 152 know exactly how it emerged but people startin naming themselves based on the guys that they 153 were, based on the guys that they hung out with. So there were several groups that had names,
154 and they would put their names on their little jackets. We were called the gents. G-E-N-T-S.
155 Because we thought we were gent gentlemen I guess. And then there were other groups had 156 other names. And sometimes if there is a fight between someone in your group then you would 157 step in to protect them or assist them. And that's kinda how it emerged, I don't think it was, I 158 don't think people were thinking lets organize a gang. There was no drugs.

159
160 RH: Right

161
162 SW: Like there is now where gangs are organized around drug distribution. There were people
163 for sure that were using- I think probably the worst thing that people, I remember people using 164 was marijuana. I don't remember anything about, anything about cocaine or heroin anything like 165 that. But it was marijuana. But nobody was selling it. There were no groups that were controlling 166 turf and all that like you have now, which you know creates a whole different kind of situation.
167 But we did have uh- territorial fights. So if you came into my neighborhood and you were from 168 any neighborhood, especially if we had had conflicts then that would create a gang rivalry and 169 gang fight. But it was strictly turf and I have no idea what turf emerged you know, I mean um
170 people tend to be organized around land I guess. You know tribal groups do it, national groups
171 do it. So we did it you know this is our neighborhood, don't come unless we give you 172 permission.

173 Um and then there would be fights. The weapons start coming in probably as we were 174 getting a little older, you sixteen, fifteen sixteen. There were some guys in the group- that I know
175 had guns. Not many not like it is today. I could I could remember who they were, and I can 176 almost remember how many there were. There was two or three, that I was aware of. And you 177 know they had nothing sophisticated you know sometimes a six shooter or something you know,
178 there were no automatic weapons in those days yea. And there were shooting, but most guys
179 relied on, and this you know might sound unbelievable in today's gang kinda culture: we did a 180 lot of fighting. We did literally fist fights.

182 RH: Fist fights yea.

183

184 SW: Yea so you learn how to fight, you learn how to box. Boxing doing, when I grew up was um 185 what a, prize fighting. Was a sport that was very very popular in many communities. Certainly 186 was popular in the African American community. Um because TVs were coming out and one of 187 the, the more popular uh TV show or sport was the fights. You know they came out there a 188 couple times a week. I can even remember who produced those: Gillette. The razor you know.

189

191
192 SW: And so you knew about, uh during my times you knew about Joe Lewis, you knew about 193 {name I cant make out}, you knew about Sugar Ray Robinson, and these were figures that were 194 as popular as the basketball stars are now. You know the Kobe Bryant, but we didn't have Kobe
195 Bryant cause we didn't have basketball. Blacks didn't play basketball in the NBA until later. Um
196 but we knew about the boxers. So we boxed and gang rivalry tended to end up with two or three 197 guys squarin off and just boxin and trying to beat the other one to a pulp. Very, very rarely did it
198 get beyond fist fights, you know maybe somebody pickin up a bat or creating some kind of 199 weapon, you know.

200
201 RH: Right

202
203 SW: Um and then you know there were a few guys that had guns and we knew that had guns but 204 primarily it was fist fights.

206 RH: So I guess um- a thing that is sorta different about gangs is you would say that a lot of gangs 207 back then started out because of something that started out innocent like baseball games.

209 SW: Mmhmm, mmhmm.

210
211 RH: And they moved to that something that ended up more violent.

212
213 SW: Yea they just, they they clearly, I know the gang that I was in started out as a social club.
214 You know I like these guys, we hang out together. We probably lived in the same block you 215 know. We knew each other's, parents knew this group of kids- um we knew the parents and we 216 saw the parents coming out on the street we were respectfully you know, how are you Mrs.
217 Smith? You know and if we were doing anything that was not permitted we would stop doing it.
218 Um and so that group of kids, those were my buddies and so if we gonna have something to 219 identify us as a group then that would become my gang. You know cause they were going to 220 protect me. We had you know we would get our little- well they weren't starter jackets but they 221 were like starter jackets and you would literally get some water colors you know paint. Not water
222 colors cause that would wash away but paint and somebody who was artistic enough would do 223 the name of social club on the back of the jacket.

225 RH: O wow.

226
227 SW: So then when you go to school everybody say you know he's in the Gents. And you know it
228 was, I think it was a way of setting yourself off, you know we didn't have boy scouts, we didn't

229 have those clubs or organizations that were organizing supervised by parents. You know poor 230 communities don't have that very often. So we had our own way of organizing ourselves.

231

232 RH: Was there almost a status symbol just to be just to be in a certain gang.

233

234 SW: Yea we thought it was. I don't know if it was then but we thought it was. We thought it set
235 us off, we thought it gave us a certain amount of recognition, a certain amount of respect. Cause 236 you did get respect if you were good in sports.

237

239

240 SW: You got respect if you were a good fighter, a good boxer. I was on the wrestling team. You
241 didn't get much respect for that but people didn't pay much attention to wrestling. But football
242 you know if you was popular; a good football/basketball player you know people admired you ya
243 know everyone wanted to be admired by their peers. And so putting on a gang; we didn't really 244 call it a gang, we called it a club. Put on a club jacket and so we all together, especially if you 245 had several guys in the same club like fifteen or twenty-

246

247 RH: Right

248

249 SW: And then you know we might be going down the street together you know fifteen twenty 250 guys, and people you hear people sayin those are the gents.

252 RH: Yea

253

254 SW: It was very uh very kind of gratifying. And if you somebody bothers you you obviously 255 have to protect your guys.

256

257 RH: Right

258

259 SW: And that's kinda how it spilled over. And typically it would be fights but there were some 260 violence and and there were, I can think of two deaths as I was growing up from gang violence,
261 but nothing related to drugs at all. In fact most of the guys I knew, they used marijuana 262 occasionally. I never used marijuana even as a kid which is kinda- different from-

264 RH: It's an important distinction

265

266 SW: kids that grew up later than me. But I didn't, I didn't use it because (clears throat) I was a
267 little different in that I grew up in and around the church. My mom kept me in church. And I 268 had- I guess adopted the values of the church so I didn't smoke, I didn't drink, I didn't use any 269 drugs, until I was probably about seventeen I started smoking.

271 RH: Cigarettes.

272

273 SW: Cigarettes. Yup nothing, nothing more than cigarettes. And around that time you know I
274 probably started drinking with the other guys but I would be around these guys and they would

275 be drinking, everybody smoked. Some guys would steal, little petty stuff goin to the store and 276 steal a cupcake and I would do that. I did nothing that was illegal or conflicted with the social 277 norms in my family. And they teased me about it but you know they respected me because I was 278 one of the leaders of the gang cause I could, I was a good fighter. And that was you know kind of 279 critical. And I was popular with the girls and you know that was pretty important for us. So even 280 if you didn't smoke or drink if you had those other thing goin on then you were still pretty 281 popular.

283 RH: One final thing about gangs: did you parents really know and if they did how did they react?

284

285 SW: I'm not sure that they knew, we never said anything about it. We tried to keep that sorta 286 thing from parents.

288 RH: Really?

289

290 SW: (laughs)

291

292 RH: (laughs)

293

294 SW: I don't really know what they would have done but I think they knew, she knew, my mom
295 who did more of the super- supervised me more than my dad cause dad was working all the time.
296 Mom knew that there were certain, dad did too but mom knew better than dad that there were 297 certain guys that I spent time with almost all the time and she knew them. She knew, she knew of 298 their parents, she didn't know their parents that well but she knew who they were. Uh like 299 parents should I think. So she might have surmised that I was in something you know I didn't try 300 to hide my jacket from her, but I don't think she thought much of it. I think she just thought you 301 know I think she thought that the guys I spent time with were good guys and they were. She 302 didn't have any problems with them, they didn't come around, they weren't cussing, getting into 303 any trouble that she was aware of. And so you know she thought that they was cool. Now I do 304 remember, uh I worked at a local laundry after school and I got into a fight with an older guy, at 305 the job. (Laughs) and he chased me out of the plant. And when I got home, cause he had hit me 306 and bust my lip or something, all the guys came to my house cause they were ready to go after 307 him and she told me your not goin out. So I couldn't go out. So I think she may have concluded
308 that there were guys that were very close to me and protect me. But she knew them all.

309

310 RH: Right

311

312 SW: But I think she also sensed that this was not a good thing for me since she knew that the guy
313 had hit me and my guys were coming to the house so she just said you aren't going out today.
314 And that was the end of that and I didn't go out.

316 RH: And so you kept your church values basically throughout your whole-

317

318 SW: I think I still have them, in one way or another, in terms of fair play. It may have dictated 319 um my going into civil rights law and it probably dictated my advocacy around human rights and 320 a lot of other stuff. I don't know I haven't analyzed it like that. But for sure that was the, the first

321 kind of cultural values that I had grew from the house like most people. And I know mine were 322 greatly influenced by the church because my parents values were greatly influenced by the 323 church and church ideas. I think many people are like that; they might not identify with the 324 church but people tend to have church influence whether your Jew, Catholic whatever. And those 325 values that you learn, cause church is, theology has a lot to do with values. And it's there and 326 you know I think it's good cause it kept me from stealing, it may have kept me from using drugs 327 and all that other stuff you know so that's cool.

329 RH: Yea. To segway into uh civil rights, when would you say you first witnessed an act that you 330 considered violating someone's civil rights?

332 SW: (Clears throat) I don't know if I've very many-um- I knew of some. I mean I knew about
333 Emmet Till. (Pause) I didn't know for example growing up, I wasn't, I didn't grow up thinking
334 would be a lawyer. That wasn't an ambition of mine, and I didn't even have the ambition of 335 going to college. Cause we didn't-many- going to college in the working class community 336 wasn't always something that was considered likely or even desired. My parents cause they 337 were-they were- they were from the south, and they had been-my father had been in the south as 338 a share cropper. My mom was a-lived her parents had a small farm. Neither one of them finished 339 high school. So thergo for me and the other children was that we would finish high school, and if 340 we finished high school that they would believe that that would be sufficient for us to get a 341 decent job and all the rest of it, get married and have children. Never do I recall my parents, 342 either of them talking about college.

343 The college came when I uh, when I finished high school I went to junior college for a
344 week or two and I dropped out and then I went into the military. And then in the military I began 345 to encounter crystallized ideas of maybe I should go to college and didn't have a clue about how 346 to do it. Really didn't know anybody who had gone to college. We didn't have college graduates
347 that I was aware of in my neighborhood. And so I had to figure all that out. And I took a couple
348 of courses while I was in the military at local community colleges. And when I came back I
349 started driving a bus; I was married by then. I got married while I was in the military. I started
350 driving a bus, and there were guys that were bus drivers that were fairly well educated. Well you 351 know-bus driving was a job where you could get paid as though you-there was-there was- your 352 pay was comparable to pay you would get if you were in a profession. Because there were guys
353 who had college degrees, but because they were black they couldn't get in to certain sectors. So 354 bus driver was a job you could get that would get-that you could be paid, you know, kind of a
355 decent salary by driving a bus. So we had a lot of very smart bus drivers. A number of college 356 graduates and some of them were actually teaching school while they were driving the buses.
357 And so in in being in that company it helped me to kind of crystallize ideas of going to college
358 with a reasonable expectation of finishing college. And I did I stayed with it-took a while-took 359 me six years because I was in city college for three years and then I went to the University of 360 Chicago. And then I went to graduate school. And my family used to tease me because it
361 appeared to them that I was never going to finish school; I was constantly going to graduate 362 school and law school and all this other stuff. But I enjoy school after I started going on a regular 363 basis and started being successful

364

365 RH: Um to back track a little bit, um why in retrospect do you think you joined the armed 366 forces?

367 SW: I think I joined the armed forces because in a working class community, certainly a black 368 working class community, you don't have a lot of-you don't imagine a lot of options because 369 you don't see them around you. There are no school teachers, there are doctors, there are no 370 lawyers, there are really nobody but people going to jobs, mostly factory jobs. In Chicago the 371 black middle class, the professional black middle class, largely lived on the south side. Nobody 372 lived on the west side. West side was kind of considered not the place to live you know because 373 the people-this is the way black people considered it I think.

374

375 RH: Right.

376

377 SW: If you were on the west side you know there was a lot more poverty, a lot more unruliness
378 on the west side. So the people on the south side, the professionals, not only did they not live on 379 the west side, they didn't come to the west side.

381 RH; At all.

382

383 SW: Hardly ever. And we didn't go to the south side either. Cause we thought they were stuck
384 up and satiety and all of that. So the black doctors, the black lawyers, teachers, none of them
385 lived on the west side so we didn't have any of these as role models. So I think that um just 386 growing up you know you didn't have role models so you didn't-you didn't imagine certain 387 things. See in a middle class house, because I have a middle class house and that I'm a middle 388 class person, my kids as they grow up they are around books all the time. They are around people 389 who can tutor them and insist that they do certain things, not only assist but can say let's sit 390 down and do the algebra now. You know work through it. And the expectation in my household 391 is that you are going to college. You know, you might not like the idea but you're going to 392 college. And I think as they grow up the kids go, because all my children went to college. They 393 are all affected by the expectations of the household, you know coming from the parents.
394 Because their parents went to college, and very often their friends went to college So when they 395 grow up they just- you know are automatically thinking about college and applying to colleges
396 and all of that. That's not true in all com- that's not true in all classes. When I grew up there was 397 no discussion about college theres no expectation about college. My parents are glad that I went,
398 but they didn't plan for it, they didn't put money aside for it, none of that. Because it just wasn't 399 part of working class culture, at least in my neighborhood. It might have been more a part of 400 working class culture if you were on the south side because there was more of a mixture of 401 working class people you know blacks working in factories like the steel mills and the meat
402 packing industry. But they were also mixed up with the doctors and the lawyers. And my guess 403 is that if we had been on the south side that the expectation may have been greater or different 404 than you know than living on the west side.

405 So um, I don't know if that answered the question or not.

406

407 RH: Ha no its fine. It's not a big deal. So um how did you adjust to live when you came back
408 from the service? Um

410 SW: O I know the question, how did I decide to go to the service I think it was. There were 411 people who were friends of mine who, I had my best friend went to the military before I went to 412 the military. And my second best friend went I think around the same time.

414 RH: Ok

415

416 SW: So as we were finishing high school, there were guys who had gone to the military that we 417 knew. Cousins or you know, just a little older, that were coming back with all these stories about 418 the fun that they had and the women that they met and all of that. And since we didn't have all 419 these other options, of college and you know expectations, military was a very natural outlet for 420 us, a natural option because military wasn't competing with going to college because going to 421 college wasn't on the table. So more of the working class kids go to the military more than 422 probably the middle class kids, you know because this is a reasonable option. You go away at 423 about the time you are 18, if you finish school, you know there is a void you know there's 424 nothing to do because you're used to going to school and you know sometimes you go and hang 425 out at the school which is not a good thing. So I would say many of the young men went off to 426 the military or they got jobs right away. You know they feel like it was satisfactory and they 427 didn't feel like they needed to go and play. And so it was- I think it was a quest for something
428 new after high school. Something that I had heard about that sounded exciting to do-travel you
429 know cause I heard at least if you go in the military during your first tour of duty you would go
430 overseas at least once which was the rule. So you got a chance to go overseas and travel and all 431 that. It's just exciting, it was different.

433 After high school I would say things were pretty boring, for lack of a better term. You
434 know so the military seemed like a better way to do it. And I'm kinda glad I went, I had a good 435 time in the military. I didn't go to Vietnam, I could have gone to Vietnam- it was during the 436 Vietnam era, but I didn't go. I met some great guys from all over the country. So you know it
437 was good, it was good for me. I don't advise or encourage people to go into the military now 438 because I have a different view on the military but then it was a good way to get out of the 439 neighborhood.

439

440 RH: Afterwards, um I know you talked a little bit about it already but why did you take the job 441 as a bus driver?

443 SW: Um it was available. I was looking for a job. I had been trained in the military to be a 444 communications operator- I was a teletype operator. And there weren't too many teletype jobs in 445 the civilian sector, in fact the civilian jobs- the military jobs don't transfer to the civilian sector in 446 the way the recruiters said they do. I mean they would say that because they were trying to get 447 kids to join the military but they really don't. So I didn't have a job- I had applied to a couple 448 things. I think I was going to apply to be an insurance agent you know selling insurance, but that 449 seemed kinda boring to me. And uh I don't know who told me but you know the bus drivers-
450 CTA was hiring and I applied and I passed the test and I got the job. And it was a good job, I 451 enjoyed it. Driving the bus, meeting people, no real confining environment like when I worked at 452 the laundry you know you go to this one plant and you you're here all day and its pretty boring.
453 You're out and you never know what's going to happen from day to day you out on the bus
454 you're meeting people, meeting a lot of girls, hitting on girls you know so it was a great job. You 455 know and the pay was good.

456

457 RH: So at this point in your life what was your relationship like with your parents?

458

459 SW: Now?

460

461 RH: At that point I'm saying when you were-

462

463 SW: O at that time my relationship was great with my parents. Um my father was very um- I 464 guess permissive is the word. My dad loved me like my mom did but he did not spend a lot of 465 time supervising me, my mom did the supervising. And he didn't spend hardly any time
466 disciplining me. My mom did a lot of that but you know he was around you know he would take 467 me with him you know sometimes if he had odd jobs he would take me. Very protective-um- so 468 my relationship was great with my parents. I had a child at a very early age so when I went to the 469 military before I finished high school I had a son that I had to take care of. And so when I got 470 back you know parents were glad cause my mom- my mother- um- took it kinda hard when I 471 joined the military because she was afraid I might not come back.

472

473 RH: Right

474

475 SW: Because she had a nephew that did not come back and I think that weighed heavy on her.
476 Cause this was right after- well this wasn't directly after world war two but it was not far away
477 for her. Because this was in-I joined the military in 1960. The war had ended you know almost 478 two decades earlier but it was very vivid in her mind and she lost a nephew I think in the Korean
479 war which was just a few years earlier in nineteen fif- Korean war was probably 51, 52, you 480 know during that time period.

481 So she was very very afraid of when I decided to go off to the air force-when they took 482 me to the airport you know to ship out to go to training it was pretty sad you know my mom was 483 crying, my girlfriend was crying, I was scared you know why did I decide to do this. I had never 484 been on an airplane before so it was a pretty dramatic event, getting on the plane and leaving my 485 family. But my relationship was good with my parents-it always had been.

486

487 RH: So after, or I guess why you were a bus driver you were still going to school at Crane
488 College?

490 SW: When I when I started driving a bus, as soon as I got a regular schedule because you don't 491 get a regular schedule right away your on what's called the board. They put your route up on a
492 daily basis because you don't have a regular route. As soon as you get a chance to pick, meaning 493 pick your own schedule- it wasn't the best schedule but it was a schedule that was predictable.
494 As soon as I got that I went and enrolled in school. And I think I was- I was probably taking 495 evening classes cause I don't think I was able to- um I may have been taking day classes cause I
496 think I was driving the bus in the evening. Because it's hard to get a bus route during the day
497 because the most senior drivers prefer to have the route during the day so they can go home at 4, 498 4 o'clock or earlier. So the rookies end up driving in the evening. So we were off during the day
499 and that was cool cause I think I enrolled in class during the day and I think if my schedule
500 changed I would switch around, might go in the evening.

502 RH: Right. So I read in part of your biography uh that you uh took part in a campaign to name the 503 new part of the college Malcolm X College.

504

505 SW: Mmhmm Mmhmm.

506

507 RH: How did you get involved in that and was that basically your first activist esqe- sort of-

508

509 SW: That was probably, that was probably um my second or third I was involved in for sure,
510 politically. I think the first one would have to be-I think some time in maybe 65- I was driving 511 from 64 to 68. There was on the news-Robert Kennedy had gone to the southern states to 512 investigate claims of-poverty and starvation in certain parts of the black community. And it made 513 the news and everyone was aware of it. And I was a bus driver and I remember reaching out to 514 one or two community groups that were organizing a campaign to ship goods- food goods and 515 other goods to the south to black people that were starving in the south. And I came back to the 516 station and organized a campaign at the bus depot to- for drivers to you know spend money or 517 donate money for canned goods you know all those canned goods and clothes were collected and 518 then they were shipped down to the southern states out of this local community group that I had 519 contact with. So I think that was the first kind of crystallization of me as a young black man
520 taking a responsibility to do something to help a black community that I had no direct contact
521 with and didn't know anyone in the community except I knew that there were black people there
522 starving based on the reports. So I think that's the early stages of developing this kind of 523 consciousness that doesn't require direct involved that can be distant like south Africa for 524 example.

525 And then when I went to school-probably uh I think I started school in 65 cause I came 526 home in 64- got the job in 64- and I think I had a schedule maybe by the end of 65. I think in 66
527 there was a historian that came on campus, a young white woman. And she was speaking on-she 528 was lecturing on negro history and I went to the lecture, it was a guest lecture. And I was amazed
529 that the negro, which is me, had such a great history. Because we weren't taught history in the 530 schools. There was no black history taught in any of the northern schools, I think it was taught in 531 the southern schools because the southern schools were segregated and the southern schools had 532 black teachers. We didn't have black teachers in the urban northern schools, not very many. And 533 even if we had some they weren't teaching black history. Um so black people were excluded
534 from the American history books except they were mentioning blacks that were slaves so you
535 entered the history as a slave and that's where they left you as a slave. So she was talking about 536 all the great things that black people had done. You know I think it was more- it wasn't a social 537 history it was more of a kind of typical chronological you know black people invented this and 538 did this. All the good things that showed that we had the same level of intellect of other people in 539 terms of industry ect. But I was fascinated I said my goodness because the only person I knew in 540 history was a book I had I think it's the only book I had on history-was up from slavery a history
541 of Booker T Washington. And I really admired him for what he did coming out of slavery. So I
542 as a result of that lecture in my- thirst for more of what she had given in her lecture, I organized
543 the Negro history club. And I don't remember how I organized I think I just I knew some student 544 by this time I think I just said lets start meeting and lets study or own history. And people were 545 you know people were respondent. And you know I think we would meet maybe once a week in 546 one of the classrooms. And there would be several students. We would find books and we would 547 read together and discuss them. And that's kind of how it got off the ground. And as a result of 548 that I became associated with the idea that we should be at least studying history and be 549 concerned with our own history. And at some point the student movement was developing 550 around us. Because what we were doing at Crane College was apparently happening at the other

551 colleges because there was a lot of stuff going on around the world. And at some point someone 552 suggested that I run for student government because we were developing ideas about what black 553 people should be doing. The nationalism was developing. In fact the Negro history club probably 554 the end of that year or in early 67-we had changed the name to the Afro-American History club, 555 which suggested a change in our thinking about ourselves. We were no longer identifying as 556 negros. And um somebody suggested I run for the student government as student government 557 president so we could have more influence in the student population and maybe convince the 558 other students, cause you know it's a predominantly black school, to study history or be 559 concerned about issues that relate to black people. And I did. We had a very vigorous campaign.
560 I had a vice president a presidential candidate, a secretary and a treasurer. And they all campaign
561 similarly. And I think our campaign was called the progressive party and they were called 562 something else. And uh this was the fall of 67 and we won. And so I became the leader of the 563 student body. And they gave me an office in the building.

565 RH: With a window?

566

567 SW: Yea with a window. And I promptly put up a big picture of Malcolm X. I don't have the 568 picture here but there's Malcolm back there in the corner. This is a big-it's like a poster. Because 569 we were very much- admired Malcolm X and so we would listen to his records of speeches. And 570 we would listen to them in the student day room where there were other students because we 571 wanted other students to hear the speeches as well. So we were really trying to educate the other
572 students by bringing these speeches in and having these discussions you know. And I think it 573 was working to a great extent. But there was a reaction. And the reaction came from- partly from 574 the some of the white faculty didn't understand but in particular the white woman who was like 575 the faculty member of the student newspaper. And she had um-

576

577 RH: She did not understand.

578

579 SW: She did not understand. And the newspaper- some of the articles were attack articles. I still 580 have a lot of this stuff. Because they thought that I didn't like- I was trying to alienate or didn't 581 represent the white students. There weren't that many white students. But we didn't really care 582 about the white students in terms of alienating them. We were really trying to focus on our 583 history and what we should be doing as black students. And then in March of the next year, we 584 learned that the national guards in South Carolina - at the university of South Carolina, they had 585 murdered students on campus- they had shot students on campus because there was a peaceful 586 protest. This was in Orangeburg South Carolina. And we were outraged by it so we decided to 587 have a demonstration. And we- one of the members of the group his uncle had owned a local 588 funeral home so we asked him to ask his uncle if he would loan us a casket and we were going to 589 take the coffin and march through the community to symbolize the death of these students. He 590 couldn't loan us a coffin because they were too expensive but he gave us the container that the 591 coffin came in and it looked like a coffin. So we marched through the community with what 592 looked like a coffin. And it was very dramatic. So the newspaper got a picture of me marching 593 with the coffin surrounded by not just students but faculty. And they criticized they attacked me.
594 I didn't care. But it just showed that we were very strong. I mean we were developing a very 595 strong cohesive student group that included faculty supporters that included staff people like the 596 secretaries the people that work in the engineering room. And had a fair amount of support from

597 the administration because we were not on the attack we were really trying to rebuild the sense
598 of self esteem with a group of students that didn't have a lot of it. But trying to help them
599 understand that there was a responsibility that they had to try to uplift the community. And I 600 think most people at some point begin to get it. Because we- the support we got eventually from 601 the faculty was great.

602 So it was during that time I would say- in fact I know for sure cause I did research
603 recently. Someone asked me to write a section of a book on this. And I started researching on 604 this, but i didn't do the writing. But I drafted a letter to the president of the school and to the 605 faculty. And in that letter demands were made, many of them had to do with student 606 involvement. You know in the whole school. To integrate students into the school's decision
607 making. But there was one demand that was made that school-the new school cause we knew
608 that there was a new school gonna be built-that the new school be named after Malcolm X. So
609 we started the struggle around the student demands but we focused a lot on fighting for- and I
610 think we also demanded that the new president of the school that they make an active effort to 611 recruit a black person to be president of the school. And that they have more black faculty. All of 612 that was in the demand. But that was very common throughout the black student world. All of 613 over the country people were doing that. And so eventually the name after a lot of struggle,
614 decided to the name the school Malcolm X. I think it had a lot to do with the fact that our base
615 was so solid. It wasn't just a few radical students. It was you know support coming from like I 616 said faculty and administration exedra You know. And it was even more amazing because 617 Malcolm X had been assassinated only 2 and a half before we started advancing his name. And 618 Malcolm was not very popular- he was not popular in the white community at all because they 619 feared him. But he wasn't that popular in the black community. So to put his name out there to 620 name a school was pretty bold for these students to do that. Given Malcolm's reputation you 621 know they didn't have the Malcolm X movie that came out much later and all that. So he was 622 really feared by many black people. So I think many black people probably in the communitis
623 probably thought we losing our minds, but you know the school is named Malcolm X.

624
625 RH: Right it still is. So that was basically your first organization that you sort of recruited for and 626 kind of started-

627
628 SW: Yea but at the same time this was 67, I went into government in 68- we were really 629 organizing hard because Dr. King was assassinated a month after we had the demonstration in 630 March he was assassinated in April, so all hell broke loose. But at the same time during that 631 same year in 67 going to 68 I was working at the buses and I think in late 67 we had had a wild
632 cat strike at the bus depot and I was part of that wild cat strike. Because there was a controversy 633 about one of our drivers, they had fire one of our drivers and we told them we wouldn't till they 634 hired him and we didn't and they hired him back. And then later in 60- later in 68 we were 635 having all these conflicts with the-not with the company, not with CTA so much but with our 636 union. You know the union was-the union itself the union officials were all white. The 637 demographics of the drivers was rapidly changing. We were probably at least 50% of the 638 population but the union was all white so what the union officials did is they allowed white 639 drivers-white retired drivers to vote at the union hall on the issues that we thought were 640 important. So this was their mechanism of keeping the black vote diluted. And you know we 641 were just outraged by that. And so we end up on going a wild cat strike during the summer of 68
642 at the same time we were engaged in the battle of naming the college. And I was one of the 643 organizers of that strike. And that strike lasted most of the summer. It was a huge strike. It closed 644 down the west and south side of Chicago completely. We tried to close down the north side but 645 the north side was- there weren't that many black communities on the north side. When we 646 would go to the station on the north side we just weren't as successful. And we would get 647 arrested you know just going up in those white neighborhoods. But we closed down the city-

648
649 RH: Just for being there?

650
651 SW: Yea yea. I mean we go down to set up a picket, police come right away. You know you 652 leave or we arrest you. And so it was supported around the communities so it was very difficult.
653 So the strike lasted and this is on the present mayor's father, and during that same year, I mean
654 that same summer, we eventually convinced the L drivers to go on strike. So they went on strike
655 for a period of time, not like they didn't strike long. And the cab drivers went out on strike
656 during the same period. So transportation was like stopped.

657

659
660 SW: And it was on the eve of the democratic national convention that was going to be held in 661 Chicago-

662
663 RH: O wow.

664
665 SW: And so I'm sure it freaked the mayor out because he was a big time old bosses. So then of 666 course the-what we know about that-what most people know about that period is that the 667 democratic national convention a lot of the radical white students came into town because the 668 war was heating up. And there was these anti war demonstrations and the Chicago police reacted 669 to them and beat up a lot of them-

672
673 SW: So many people think 68 is the time the white radical students were attacked by the police
674 but the other important thing that happened was that the black bus drivers had closed the city
675 down prior to the white students getting here. Probably pissed the mayor off. So when the white 676 kids got here he was so angry. Because many of the white students came to us to help us with the 677 strike, to their credit. And so we asked them to go up north and man the picket lines and they did
678 and they weren't arrested so they were helpful in that regard. And that was their way of showing
679 solidarity which was good. So I was organizing on two fronts: I was organizing in the work place
680 with the bus drivers and I was organizing more with the student organizers- more my organizing.

681

683
684 SW: The bus drivers I was organizing with other people. Kind of taking leadership on some parts
685 of it but not all of it. But in the student community I was considered the leader of the student 686 during that time period and-I accepted that responsibility and we moved forward. That was the 687 same time that Fred Hampton came on campus in 67. And so there developed some-at least in 688 some people's minds competition for leadership cause I didn't realize at the time but Fred and

689 Bobby Rush came on campus to organize because this school had a reputation for having very 690 militant students. And I so I saw them on campus-I just assumed they were there taking classes
691 but as I learned later they weren't there taking classes they were there to organize. And when I
692 left in 68 I graduated and went to the University of Chicago uh they apparently stepped up their 693 organizing cause many of my followers either didn't join the party or did join the party.

694

696

697 SW: So many of them did join the party after I left. And so the student movement as such really 698 just kinda went away because the leadership-I left and then many of the leaders that were with 699 me joined the Black Panther party. And that kinda ended that for a long spell.

701 RH: So when you went to the University of Chicago is that when you sorta learned about the 702 South Africa conflict?

704 SW: Well I knew about it- I don't think we did very much organizing around that- we knew
705 about it if there was organizing- the organizing was I think largely learning more about it
706 studying- we certainly were studying as much as we could about Africa generally, because we 707 had not done that. But it was- once I went to the University of Chicago there was much more 708 organized efforts around the anti-colonial movement. I don't think we made a distinction because 709 the Portuguese colonies were fighting for liberation and South Africa and Namibia what was 710 called South West Africa. So I don't think we made the distinction that we were just focusing on 711 apartheid. Now after the Portuguese colonies got independence, after Angola, Mozambique, and 712 after Guinea-Bissau got independence which was in probably the late 70s the early 80s then we-
713 the only country left was South Africa, then all the focus was on South Africa. But before then I
714 would say throughout the 70s we were you know like I said Prexy had headed the Mozambique
715 Support Committee. So we were more spread out because there were I guess 5 or 6 countries that 716 had not gotten independence. All the French and the English countries had gotten independence
717 in 1960. Um the Portuguese for a lot of reasons: one they had a dictator, Salazar, 2 they were a
718 very backwards economy compared to the British and French, so they felt they really needed 719 their colonies, they couldn't survive without their colonies at least that was their few. And the 720 movement in Portugal was slowly developing; you know it wasn't a strong progressive 721 movement until later. And maybe the resistance in the colonies the helped strengthen the 722 movement in the homeland. So I think after Guinea-Bissau put up such a strong resistance in 723 Guinea, little small small Guinea, it really broke the back of the Portuguese suppression, and the 724 movements in Portugal were gaining and they kicked Salazar out. Right after that the Portuguese
725 control just diminished in Mozambique, Angola and Guinea-Bissau got their independence. So 726 then we were able to focus just on South Africa.

728 RH: So when you were at the University of Chicago during the 70s was there a specific 729 organization you joined that was specifically devoted to the anti-colonialism or was there-

730

731 SW: No it was just the Organization of Black Students.

732

733 RH: Just black students-

734

735 SW: You know we did various things. You know I can remember having different-periodically
736 different protests cause they would emerge. You know there might a campaign against shell oil
737 or there might be a campaign against various things that we thought would help you know
738 support these movements. So we would join those, you know the black students would and many 739 of the white students were slowly doing it, you know like SDS and all those they were joining as 740 well. But a lot of focus obviously was on the- especially as you get into the late 70s-the war
741 became a main focus so many of the progressive groups. Somebody would have been within the 742 context of the Organization of Black Students on campus at the University of Chicago that I did 743 all the work at that time.

745 RH: Did you have like a specific role that you kinda did, like a certain specific thing within the 746 organization or it was just kinda whatever needed-

747

748 SW: No it was just whatever came up that was supportive we would try to get students to join. I
749 was one of the leaders of the Organization of Black Students. All the students weren't as 750 political-the student-black student body wasn't that great-I mean wasn't that large. But many of 751 them were you know. I think if you gave leadership people would you know-if it was reasonable 752 they would join. So we had a lot of activities going on around different things related to the-and 753 we had a little core group that studied together. You know these are the more progressive black 754 students. You know we studied you now Marxism, Leninism, there all socialist thoughts. We 755 studied the thoughts of African socialists like Incruma, Sacuta Raymond and then the socialist 756 thinking in the African context. We were following developments in Cuba. You know so we 757 were well aware of what was going on with Cuba and Seguvara and Fidel Castro. And so we 758 knew what was going on in all of these regions, and if something came up like theres a speaker
759 on campus. I remember meeting more than once with Della Omar. And Della Omar was a South
760 African lawyer who was representing the ANC.

761

763

764 SW: And he would come to the United States seeking support you know and giving reports on 765 what was happening. And that was probably as we were focusing more on South Africa. That 766 was probably the late 70s early 80s you know when he would come. You know I think he 767 became chief justice or something in the government. I don't know what he's doing now. So 768 when people would come in we would-because we were-people knew we were progressive 769 around these issues it was easy to get an audience with you know Chris Honey who was the head
770 of the armed department for struggle. And then we would act accordingly. Very often the action
771 would be having a demonstration at the Consulate, you know right down here on Michigan. I
772 remember spending many days doing that. Or it might be something that just depending on you 773 know if the rugby team was coming, and people you know if we knew about it, if people brought 774 it to campus we might organize a delegation to go out and protest that. So we did things kinda as 775 they developed. But we didn't have anything as ongoing like Prexy had like the Mozambique
776 Support Committee. You know his mission was- his office was providing literature and ongoing 777 and 24 7 work around it, we didn't do that. Because we were a student group I mean we had 778 other stuff we were working on as well. Because you know we were fighting to get 779 administration to get more black professors and trying to get more black students at to- you know
780 all that so we had all those tasks that we undertook as students, and the South African- the anti-

781 colonial movement was one of the things that was international. And of all the international 782 things we spent more time on Africa, the continent of issues than we did on for example things
783 that happened in the Caribbean you know where there were struggles going on or things that 784 were happening in Cuba. We knew about it but I don't think there was a great deal of organizing 785 around it.

787 RH: So was there a time that focus ever shifted to a specific like South Africa- towards the end 788 of the 70s or early 80s?

790 SW: I think so I think probably I don't know exactly when but I think after the Portuguese
791 collapsed I think the anti colonial movement in the United States shifted to South Africa.

793 RH: And for you personally like-

794

795 SW: Yea. But I don't-the work I think the shift was probably for me and as a student was work
796 around again around OBS, Organization of Black Students, and a lot of that had to do with 797 picketing around the Consulate. And then that shifted in 83 when I became a lawyer so I wasn't 798 working so much with-I started doing things in a legal capacities. So I would do things-I became 799 a member of the-I organized a chapter of National Conference of Black lawyers probably in 86
800 87. And then we started doing things as NCBL. So our shift then was more as an organization.
801 We had delegations going to different conferences. I didn't go to conferences. What I did 802 locally-what all the chapters did-we took the responsibility to go to particularly pickets at the 803 Consulate and maybe other gatherings around South Africa, anti apartheid gatherings. Our 804 responsibility shifted to being there and being able to defend people.

805

807

808 SW: And that's what we did I mean-

809

810 RH: That's an important role.

811

812 SW: Yea it was a critical role. And we did that I know um in looking at some of the notes that 813 our Boston chapter you know got several people out of jail. We didn't have that many attacks 814 here I'm not sure-I can't explain why. But in other cities picketing around the Consulate led to 815 arrests. It didn't lead to a lot of arrests here; at least I don't recall a lot of arrests. But we were 816 always there to you know support and defend and if necessary go to court and go to trial if 817 necessary.

818

819 RH: Right

820

821 SW: To defend people who were demonstrating. So my role shifted I would say considerably
822 from the time I was at U of C as a student to when I became a lawyer because I had I had other 823 tools at my disposal. Now I could defend and still do the things that I was doing. I could 824 demonstrate but there's always been a feeling in the community that lawyers should be cautious
825 about demonstrating-

826

828

829 SW: Because if they get arrested there is nobody to protect the rest of them.

830

831 RH: Of course

832

833 SW: I didn't necessarily agree with that, but it made sense. I kinda thought that was a comp out 834 in some ways. If I a lawyer says that I can't do the demonstration because I gotta protect people.
835 So I would do demonstrations and you know try to not get arrested because you know I didn't 836 want to not be available to somebody. You know needing a lawyer to appear with them and 837 defend them. So National Conference of Black Lawyers, you know our chapter, we did a lot of 838 that but a lot of chapters were doing that. We didn't have a lot of chapters- well we had a
839 significant number in those days. But we had a an organization we were involved with you know
840 like uh Linux Hines one of our members in New York, he was actually representing the ANC
841 here in the United States. And so we did a lot of that cause we were very-NCBL was very well
842 respected in the progressive movement. And so we ended representing you know like Angela
843 Davis and a lot of high profile people because people trusted us. And so that's kinda-as a lawyer
844 you move to-you tend to move to defending more than just organizing protests like you would do
845 if you're not a lawyer. And so I think we did that throughout I mean for example when Mandela
846 got out of prison we sent a delegation to help ensure fair elections. We sent um Shanora Gilbert
847 and Hayward Burns and I think there may have been others. But Shanora Gilbert Hayward Burns
848 were in a fatal car accident while they were in South Africa to protect the elections. So we lost
849 two of our very important members. Shanora was out of the New York Chapter. Hayward Burns 850 was actually one of the founders of the NCBL. So we always had somebody there you know to 851 uh carry out the struggle and at that point the struggle was to make sure the elections were fair so 852 we had people there. But we were on several fronts I mean Africa is just one. I mean we had 853 people that were going to the Middle East that were going as observers and sometimes 854 supporting the Palestinian struggle. We had people going to some parts of the Caribbean during 855 the Grenada attack by the United States; you know monitoring and supporting those struggles.
856 So NCBL has been kinda at the forefront of lawyers because we define ourselves differently.

859

860 SW: So I would say after I became a lawyer everything changed. My whole posture has changed 861 pretty significantly. And it still has. I still protect but I unlike most lawyers I still organize as 862 well I still think that's important. So I go in the community around organize around certain 863 issues and particularly issues around police.

864

865 RH: To back track a little how did you react to the election of Ronald Reagan and his policies uh 866 in 82 or uh in 80.

868 SW: I think I reacted like everybody else did or people of color. I don't think we understand the 869 significance of Ronald Reagan. We picked up on some of it because immediately he talked about 870 developing-I don't know if he used these words he may have- developing black capitalism and 871 sending money into the community as a way of solving problems in the black community while 872 wiping out the kind of social net that had developed during the Roosevelt era where people could 873 survive I mean public aid, general assistance all of that. His philosophy was that government 874 should stay out of people's lives so it meant that the government should stay out of working 875 people's lives but they should not stay out of the corporate community's lives as long as they 876 were supporting capitalism and allowing the corporations to do what they want to do. And we 877 began to see that and we started talking about- our group was always very cautious about any 878 support of the notion of black capitalism. .

880 RH: Because it was farfetched or because it just you didn't think it was going to happen?

881

882 SW: For both. It was farfetched because one we were at a different stage of capitalism. We were 883 in monopoly capitalism. And very few companies were going to emerge that were going to be 884 labor intensive enough to hire black workers for example.

885

887

888 SW: Most of the big companies had emerged already. Now this is before the high tech
889 companies but it applies even there. High tech companies aren't very labor intensive like going 890 to the steel mill.

891

893

894 SW: Um so we knew the statistics you know and there were people in the progressive black
895 community and non black community that were making their arguments that black capitalism
896 didn't have the capacity. If you took all the black businesses and put them together, statistics
897 show that they only hire you know less than 1% of the black workers for example. So how do 898 you develop black businesses where there gonna hire even 5% of the black workers. It was 899 absurd and what it meant and you know the advantage of developing a kind of international 900 perspective you learn to look at other countries and you learn in many countries- South Africa-
901 not South Africa- but African countries , Asian countries, and Latin American countries, South
902 American countries as well. And what the big monopolies do and the big imperialist countries
903 would do is try to develop a class within those countries that acts as a conduit for American 904 corporations. We called them comprador classes. And we saw that this call for black capitalism
905 was an attempt to develop this comprador class within the black community that the Reagans and 906 others can point to and give support to and that group would began to articulate a whole different
907 ideology about our liberation. And we see a lot of this now. You know these black business 908 people that are republicans and they have these whole different notions about liberation you 909 know they believe in privatizing everything and the civil rights movement is a waste of time and 910 all that. We are totally opposed to that. They don't want public schools, they want private 911 schooling, they support the privatization movements going on in different parts of the country.
912 And so we saw-we begin to see that as a tactic to develop these black business communities,
913 these black business leaders as such, by putting money into the community directed at them
914 rather than putting money into the community directed at the working class generally. Putting 915 money into public schools, putting money into health care put money to job development and on 916 and on and on.

917 So they become the leaders of our community or at least a counter leadership to offset
918 the-what I would consider the more progressive leaders that had developed around the labor

919 movement and the civil rights movement and others. They would become the tools of the 920 expansion of capitalism and more importantly they would become the tools of a whole new 921 ideology about that we should move as working people. No longer would we move in 922 conjunction with other working people because we have all this in common we would move to 923 try to develop what I heard Rev. Jackson said "Black wall street" which suggest that he is buying
924 into it as well. So we were opposed to that and I think Reagan was the first to kind of articulate
925 that and uh we didn't understand right away but it became pretty clear after a while. You know 926 he started wiping out all these other supports that are necessary in a capitalist system and that 927 most capitalist systems have are ways that people can survive and still support themselves and 928 get back into mainstream as possible. And that's how I kinda began to see Reagan after a while.
929 You know I think his administration changed the whole course of history in terms of social 930 progress. So I think he was-I know a lot of people who think he is the greatest thing since uh you
931 now since Lincoln I guess but I ' know I don't feel that way and I don't think statistics support it 932 in terms of working people.

933

934 RH: Um how did you stay informed about South Africa and the conflict in general during that 935 time-during the 80's?

937 SW: Well during the 80s-well- I think I read-I read about it, I mean there were- I don't think 938 New Africa was out then. There's a publication that I subscribe to now and I think it may have 939 been out. There were publications around you know we didn't have the internet so we couldn't 940 go online and check stuff. But there were publications, there were people travelling like I was 941 saying Della Omar were coming and there were many others that came in. Because they 942 couldn't- they were banned from South Africa

943

945

946 SW: So they came in. There were students you know South African students that were kinda in 947 the mix. So I think the network was strong enough-then at-once the American anti-apartheid
948 movement began to really develop which was mid to late 80s, there was a lot of information 949 because we were taking more of an initiative you know then you started hearing about things that 950 Randall Robinson, you now that that group was doing. And you know a lot of groups were doing
951 a lot of things-trying to pressure this government to isolate South Africa you know so after a
952 while it wasn't difficult to get information because the movement-there was a movement. There 953 was a very strong movement. Initially I would say the movement was-in the 70s, particularly in 954 the anti colonial movement, which included South Africa, was probably more in the black 955 community than other communities. I don't think it was mainstream like because people were so 956 bogged down with the anti war work.

957

958

959 RH: Right

960 SW: But I think by mid 80s it had begin to shift because you began to see a lot of people who 961 probably have spent a lot of time in the-and I don't know this I haven't done the statistics of the 962 study but my guess is a lot of people who had been spending a lot of time trying to close down
963 the war many of them probably joined the anti apartheid movement in the mid to late 80s you
964 know and the forces were pretty strong. Particularly those forces to impose a very strict embargo

965 against South Africa because other countries had begin to do it and the United States was late 966 because they supported South Africa to the bitter end.

967 So I think that's what happened so just a lot of people. So news and the word and 968 publications were pretty readily available.

969

971
972 SW: And then the other part of it-we moved-my family moved out of Hyde Park in 1980. My 973 wife went to medical school. As soon as she finished medical school in 80 we moved to Oak
974 Park. But the Hyde Park community has always had a lot of information floating around. So
975 when we were over there was always stuff you know information there was no drought. Cause 976 professors-there were professors that were involved in different movements. You find that in 977 university communities you know university communities are always very enlightened 978 communities to be in. I enjoy being in around the university community.

979

981
982 SW: So it wasn't difficult to get information. And once I guess coming out of University of 983 Chicago and developing networks with people I never had difficulty. Because like I said Prexy 984 reached out to me when he had this young lady from Mozambique that needed some place to 985 stay. We were living in Oak Park then raising our daughters. And then after Mandela was free
986 they sent out delegations of people to study governments because they were trying to figure out 987 you know what form the new South Africa yea. And I remember this young man came from the 988 Alexandra community which is part of Johannesburg and he didn't have a place to stay and he 989 stayed with us for two months.

991 RH: O wow.

992
993 SW: Yea he just became part of the family. But that was after the election. This is probably 91, 994 92, 93 something like that. But you know after you become a part of that network you always got 995 information because people are always letting you know what's going on. And that was before 996 the internet of course I mean before the internet was so popular. Now you know if I turn on my 997 computer now, if it was working, I'm sure I would be getting stuff about some of everything
998 that's going on right now. It's a lot easier so it's in some ways a whole new day in terms of 999 information that we have to learn to use effectively.

1001 RH: So in the late 80s when you were getting all this information, how would you say you used 1002 all this information either defending people or otherwise in the way-just in general.

1003
1004 SW: I think I just used it to stay informed. In some ways you know you evolve you don't stay the 1005 same. So by the 80s- the mid 80s-I'm a lawyer now-you know mid 80s-

1007
1008 SW: I have two daughters so I use this information you know to try to pass it on to kids you
1009 know get them informed. You might be doing some discussions and forums you know which is 1010 for people that are involved you know it's always constant. For example I was on the-today

1011 although I was supposed to be doing this project and spending time with you then I had before I
1012 got here I had to spend time with the expert and before I got to him I was on the radio in New

1015 RH: O really

1016
1017 SW: Yea so-

1018
1019 RH: Busy man

1020
1021 SW: Yea you know when you involved like that there is always stuff to do. I was on the radio 1022 talking about the recent filing of the petition around political prisoners-

1023

1025
1026 SW: And this guy had read the paper and invited me join him so I did. So there's always stuff-
1027 you almost have to just say you know can't do it, too busy. Like tomorrow for example I was 1028 supposed to do deps. in the morning so I think I am going to have my associate do it because at 3
1029 o'clock I promised a professor friend of mine at the University of Chicago, Susan Gzesh that I 1030 would come and make a presentation to her class, cause she has the human rights group at the 1031 University of Chicago.

1034
1035 SW: So she has this class and she wants them-she wants me to talk about you can begin to bring 1036 human rights home you know into your local communities. So I'll be out there at 3 o'clock 1037 tomorrow even though I should be doing a lot other stuff like finishing this project.

1038
1039 RH: So you were doing a lot of spreading the word almost at that point?

1040
1041 SW: I think I have forever yea I mean-

1042
1043 RH: That was one of your main goals?

1044
1045 SW: Yea always I mean you always you know as a lawyer you know you- I was a civil rights
1046 lawyer right away because I started working at the Peoples' Law Office. So you have to do your 1047 civil rights lawyering-it takes a lot of time. So you don't have a lot of time to do anything other
1048 than if you're fortunate enough like I was fortunate-the work that you were doing was movement
1049 work because we were filing lawsuits against police and organizing against police and the bird
1050 torture cases came up and they came up in our office first. So you're doing that and then other 1051 things you kinda fit in. So I wasn't doing a lot of-not a huge amount of anti apartheid work. If 1052 something came along you know if there's a demonstration or if I knew about a demonstration
1053 and people needed lawyers to come to the Consulate you know then I very likely go to the 1054 Consulate. But not a lot more than that because as a civil rights lawyer you find yourself very 1055 busy advancing civil rights you know filing lawsuits and all of that.

1056

1057 RH: At this time you were participating in divestment?

1058

1059 SW: Yea the divestment movement was going on. That was probably mid 80s I think.

1060

1061 RH: How were you involved? Were you like just-

1062

1063 SW: Probably not a lot. I certainly wasn't organizing anything. I'm sure I was on panels you 1064 know periodically. But still the divestment movements had demonstrations many of them were at 1065 the consulate-so we were always dispatched to do that. Sometimes if they were bigger 1066 demonstrations you know we would be involved in that and I remember you know on several 1067 occasions being at the Consulate. So I would say I spent a lot of time in the late 80s just being 1068 available to defend people that were doing demonstrations. I wasn't doing a lot of 1069 demonstrations. It's a little harder to do them even if you're not down defending people it's a lot 1070 harder to do demonstrations, organizing them and going to the meetings to organize them when 1071 you're trying to practice law. I found practicing law is pretty demanding.

1073 RH: It seems like it.

1074

1075 SW: Yea so I wasn't doing a lot of that at that time. But being available I think the movements
1076 felt that having the few progressive lawyers that would available to defend was pretty important
1077 so. I did it you know my office did it, People's Law Office did it, we did it. We made a 1078 commitment to do it. I think there were 7 of us I think at the time which is more than most 1079 offices that would make a commitment to do things like that. Lawyer's guild, National Lawyers 1080 Guild did a lot of work around that.

1081 So I would say for the most part-became a lawyer in 83 and except for Consulate work
1082 you know forums periodically and just staying advised and trying to get- I spoke to a lot of 1083 students during that time, you know I don't do as much, but I still do quite a bit, particularly law
1084 students. You know and I could remember having discussions about Africa and the movement
1085 trying to get them involved. But I would say the work around apartheid 90% was more
1086 protecting demonstrators and that kind of stuff. And of course the 80s also for me was the time
1087 of Harold Washington's administration.

1090

1091 SW: And when I-

1092

1093 RH: How did you react when he was elected?

1094

1095 SW: I was part of uh- well when he was elected-the first election I was in law school and so we 1096 tried to help out as law students. You know you're limited as law students because it's such an 1097 intense program.

1099

1100 SW: But we brought-I don't think he came on campus, but we brought somebody from the 1101 campaign. We had literature all over campus and discussions and all that. I got out of law school
1102 in 83 so I got directly involved in the reelection campaign. And I became one of the coordinators

1103 of the Lawyers for Washington, which is some huge number of lawyers I think we had about 1104 twelve hundred lawyers committed to defending Harold. And they had to be coordinated. So that 1105 meant that we had to identify lawyers who could go to court-who had the ability to go to court, 1106 cause there was always something in court.

1107

1109
1110 SW: And we had to have the resources. So we found firms you know that had lawyers that had 1111 the resources and you know sit down with them and got a commitment from them to go to court
1112 on election day or before election day. Then we had to have lawyers to guard the polling places 1113 all over-not all over the city but all over the parts of the city that we considered would be 1114 Harold's votes. Because there were parts of the city that we knew Harold wasn't getting any 1115 votes so there was no point in defending those. But we didn't want to lose Harold's votes.

1116
1117 RH: Right

1118
1119 SW: So we had to do that. And we had to have lawyers do research on various issues. And we 1120 didn't have cell phones, we had walkie-talkies. So we on election day we had lawyers all over
1121 the city, some lawyers in areas where we didn't expect Harold to get a lot of votes but we wanted
1122 to have somebody there for the few votes. But in the areas where he got votes, we had lawyers
1123 available and at the precinct level, which is unheard of, not just at the ward level but the precinct 1124 level-available to immediately go in to resolve issues related to polling if we thought it was 1125 something that might take away votes from Harold.

1127 RH: Like unfair or unjust-

1128
1129 SW: Yea well polling places opening late.

1130

1132
1133 SW: Polling places are supposed to open at 6 or 7. If they open at 9 and there in Harold's district
1134 then that's a problem because you just lost a bunch of folks who would have voted on their way 1135 to work.

1136

1138
1139 SW: So then we-we had a command post. Somewhere downtown we had rented this big office
1140 space. And we were in touch with all these lawyers all over the city by walkie-talkie because we 1141 didn't have cell phones. And so we would get on the walkie-talkie and say precinct and such and 1142 such a precinct and such and such a ward reports that the polling place did not open until 10 o 1143 clock, we need you to go to court and get an order-order that polling place to stay open, instead 1144 of closing at 7, stay open till 10 o clock. (Snaps) Done.

1147

1148 SW: And they would go down there and they had an order. And if we saw something that looked 1149 like a pattern and it was, I can't remember what it was but we were getting reports that 1150 something was happening that was unusual. And if it was, we would send somebody to court you 1151 know we don't like the way it looks.

1153 RH: Right (laughs)

1154
1155 SW: So you know lots of stuff was happening you know I mean South Africa was still very 1156 important but we had a black empowerment-political empowerment movement in Chicago. You 1157 know that many of us got actively involved in. I spent more time doing that then I was at my new 1158 office but I had a good group of partners and they understood so it was ok. But I still had 1159 responsibilities you know I still had to go to court and file stuff and had to do trials and all that.
1160 But I just kinda you know me and Lauren H.D. Saucemam, we just kinda took over the 1161 coordination because we found a lot of the lawyers were-black lawyers and white lawyers were 1162 just there because they were trying to get city business and so they wanted to impress upon 1163 Harold that they were helping to get him reelected because they wanted city business. But we 1164 weren't trying to get city business, in fact we had a struggle internally about city business and we 1165 decided we wouldn't because we thought that if we got city business and if the Harold 1166 administration-if the Washington administration was not doing what we thought was responsible 1167 particularly as it relates to police and all that then we would have to call them out and we thought
1168 it would be difficult to call them out if they are paying us at the same time.(Laughs)

1169
1170 RH :(Laughs) Right that's true. That's a good point.

1171
1172 SW: So we decided we wouldn't do city business. So many lawyers did get city business because 1173 it's very attractive to get city business because now you got a contract and you know you're 1174 gonna get paid you know cause you got the largest corporation-at least one of the largest 1175 corporations in the city which is the city of Chicago.

1176

1178
1179 SW: But we said no we can't do that. So there's a lot of stuff going on you know I mean you do-1180 you do it enough to satisfy your sense that you're being responsible and you're trying to still 1181 move things along at the anti apartheid level. You know I think what I did, and like many others
1182 we pretty much decided that our work should be defending demonstrations when we knew about 1183 them. But you know we realistically couldn't do much more than that.

1185 RH: So by the end of the 80s and early 90s that was basically the whole-it you were involved in 1186 the anti apartheid movement it was defending demonstrations-

1187
1188 SW: Demonstrations. And many times at the Consulate, and demonstrating at the Consulate 1189 because I didn't accept the idea that I just had to step back and defend.

1190
1191 RH: Right even towards the end.

1192

1193 SW: Yea if there was a demonstration I would and walk the picket line. Now if someone got 1194 arrested then I would go you know head over to the jail. So it was kinda double duty you know,
1195 but I still feel like I could demonstrate. And we did. I don't remember very many arrests you
1196 know it was-not at the Consulate. There may have been arrests you know at the bigger 1197 demonstrations and all that but not at the Consulate. I think the Consulate to the extent to that 1198 they had any control over it made the decision they didn't want to get involved in that they just 1199 wanted to be quiet.

1200

1202

1203 SW: You know because if they arrest somebody then that's a news item you know then we are 1204 gonna raise hell about that. And I think they decided no let's don't arrest nobody. In fact I think 1205 they there were occasions where they just closed down the Consulate early and went home and 1206 let us demonstrate.

1207

1208 RH: That's funny

1209

1210 SW: Cause they didn't want the bad publicity.

1211

1212 RH: So how did you react to the official ending of apartheid that was-

1213

1214 SW: I was like everybody else-I was very elated. I was- I was reflective, you know it had been a 1215 long struggle-many people had died you know. I didn't know a lot of them but I knew they had 1216 died because I had kept up with what was happening on the ground quite a bit through various 1217 sources. You know that I was reflective in terms of the sacrifice that the South African people 1218 had made you know you think about Mandela doing two decades plus in prison and all that and 1219 makes you very reflective. But I was just very happy you know very happy. It brought tears to 1220 my eyes just the idea that Mandela was getting out and the South African people were going to 1221 get elections. I didn't at the time have any idea, nobody else did, that even after the elections
1222 that the people of South Africa, South African workers were still- that the white South Africans
1223 were still going to control 87% of the most arable land productive land and that large numbers
1224 of African people would still be locked out of you know their own economy. Because when I
1225 went to South Africa in 2001-I went to Durbin- and we went out-outside of Durbin they had 1226 these shanty towns with no plumbing no nothing just people out there because they were close 1227 to Durbin and I guess they could come into town to try find work to survive but there was 1228 nothing in these homesteads. So I had no way of foreseeing that so I was just elated because I
1229 thought finally the people South Africa after all these decades would just have a new day you 1230 know. And to some extent they do but to in another sense they don't because they are still 1231 suffering tremendously after all that struggle.

1232

1233 RH: Right. And you reacted the same way when Mandela was elected president?

1234

1235 SW: Yea. Except we heard about the deaths of Shanora and Hayward Burns I mean that put a 1236 damper on it but I mean we were very happy. I mean we knew he would be elected. And then 1237 the other damper of course, prior to the elections, weeks prior to the elections-there was an 1238 attempt by the right-to disrupt the elections and to force the South African- to force the ANC in 1239 particular in to reacting to various acts of violence. You know trying to-

1240

1241 RH: Trying to draw them out?

1242

1244

1246

1247 SW: To divert and to undermine the upcoming election. So we were concerned about that 1248 because there were various acts of violence around. And the one that stands out obviously is 1249 the murder of Chris Honey. Chris had been thought of as the successor to Mandela because he 1250 led the armed struggle part of the-he was a member of the communist party but he was also a 1251 member of the ANC. And to kill Chris-appeared would plunge South Africa into a civil war so we 1252 were very concerned about that as we were moving towards the election and we knew about it
1253 I mean you know we stayed in touch with what was going on in South Africa on almost a daily
1254 basis. So once the election was done and Mandela won and the country did not go into civil 1255 war, the Baltilucy (spelling?) people out of Encata which was the Zulu part of the population
1256 and the leadership out of that group was pretty reactionary-they were anti ANC because you 1257 know they worked with the South African apartheid government against the ANC and all that.

1258

1259 RH: Right

1260

1261 SW: So we were concerned that that might be a problem. So when the election happened and 1262 he was elected and you know sworn in and there was no Encata creating stuff of any
1263 significance-there's no civil war, we had lost Chris you know in the murder- assassination but it

1264 didn't stop any thing it didn't plunge-I think largely due to Mandela's being able to control
1265 things. So it was you know it was kind of bitter sweet in a sense that even after he gets out of 1266 prison the people of South Africa still struggling to get to the point where they can say they 1267 have a government, they have a president that they chose because there were still reactionary
1268 forces to stop that. So you always kind of waiting to exhale. And I mean you exhaled after he 1269 was sworn in. And then they had the Truth and Reconciliation and there was all the questions 1270 about it-

1272 RH: How did you react to that?

1273

1274 SW: I don't know you know I kinda understood it but I didn't like it. I didn't like the idea that 1275 these racists were going to be able to just admit to their violence and racism and just walk
1276 away. I thought it was unfair you know because there was a lot of people that were murdered
1277 by the apartheid regime and just let them walk away like that. But I understood in the context 1278 of the overall international scene at the time because unlike the anti apartheid struggles in the 1279 70s and 80s, there was another force that was available and that was the Soviet Union and the 1280 Soviet Block. But the Soviet Union didn't exist anymore with Mandela. And so the only blocks
1281 was the NATO and the western blocks. And so everything changed. If South Africa had taken a 1282 stronger position and said we're gonna you know prosecute all these guys it would have 1283 offended the western block because the western block supported apartheid.

1284

1286

1287 SW: So they had to factor all that in. So I you know I had to understand that it was their 1288 decisions-we supported the movement but it wasn't our movement it was their movement.

1289

1290 RH: Right

1291 SW: So you kinda have to let them make decisions about how they proceed and they have to 1292 take a lot of stuff into consideration. So you just live with that.

1295

1296 SW: In terms of what?

1297

1298 RH: In terms of the whole movement in general. Or I mean-you would have approached it 1299 differently or any-

1300

1301 SW: I don't know I think uh- I'm pretty satisfied with where I am now. I think I'm a late bloomer.
1302 You know I didn't go to college till late I didn't finish college till late. If I had-when I was raising
1303 my daughters and then my son came and my wife and I at the time were working very hard, I 1304 was trying to develop a private practice, she was trying to develop as a doctor, we always 1305 talked about traveling and going to Africa and maybe getting involved at a different level but 1306 we just didn't have that option. We didn't have the money, we couldn't take the kids out of 1307 school. I would have liked to for example-I went into a PHD program in Latin American studies
1308 at the University of Chicago, the first Latin American studies they had, that they developed.
1309 And-you know there were times where I regretted not being able to do like the other students 1310 who were single that didn't have responsibilities that I had- they after the first summer after 1311 the first year the first summer we had-I think all of them went to Mexico and studied language
1312 all summer. And so when they came back in the fall they were all speaking very well. I didn't 1313 have those options, I had to work, I had children.

1315 RH: Well you have priorities.

1316

1317 SW: Yea and so I couldn't do all that. So I guess if I could change that I wouldn't change that by 1318 getting rid of my children but it would have made things different cause I would of-I would be 1319 speaking Spanish now. And if I was speaking Spanish now I would probably be spending some 1320 time-organizing a viable connection between the African American community and least parts of 1321 the Latino community because I think there are some areas in common. I think that could-I think 1322 I would able to facilitate that better if I was speaking Spanish. And I took time off, me and my 1323 son took a class a couple summers ago but it just wasn't enough and I couldn't get into it because 1324 I was too busy with my practice. So I always wished I could speak Spanish because I know a lot
1325 of people-progressives in the Latino community but it ain't the same if you can go into a 1326 community. Because it gives you a certain level of authenticity if you can speak the language.

1327

1329

1330 SW: So you know I regret not being able to spend more time- because in the Latin American 1331 studies program you had to- to get your masters you had to pass a language exam which I did but 1332 that was all reading-

1333

1334 RH: O ok.

1335

1336 SW: But it was not speaking. And if I had had more time and I didn't have so many 1337 responsibilities I would have definitely- my daughter Akiza when she went to Columbia-she 1338 went to Columbus-Columbia. You know I told you we had this student from Columbia, 1339 Colleque, Columbia.

1340

1341 RH: Right

1342

1343 SW: She went the next summer. When she came back she was speaking Spanish fluently. But we 1344 had had her in classes since she was probably in the first grade, Spanish class. I remember
1345 having her in the summer-in language-seeing my other daughter in a language camp. So they had 1346 all those advantages that we gave them. And I think she still does. It's been many many years
1347 ago but she says she still hears Spanish she doesn't speak it that well because she doesn't use it 1348 but she still hears it.

1349 So I would have done that differently. I think the longer shorter I would have done more
1350 to- be more involved in other parts of the movement by learning the language-and I think I
1351 would have-if I had more time I would study more. You know when I was at U of C I studied a 1352 lot more than I study now. And you have to study if you're involved in a movement. You know 1353 especially if you are part of the leadership- you have to study to help people- you see in my 1354 community I know for sure that I am seen as a progressive lawyer who has a certain amount of 1355 respect in other communities. You know in the progressive white community, the Palestinian 1356 community, the Puerto Rican community, to some extent some parts of the Mexican community.
1357 So unlike many I have an international base in that sense. It would be a deeper base and it would 1358 be a base that I can probably help my community to understand better and maybe adopt in some 1359 ways if I had more time to study. You know struggle and study goes hand in hand. You know I
1360 got many books but I just don't ever have time to study. I would like to know more about for

1361 example the whole immigration issue. I would like to more about it-I have the books if I read
1362 them-I would like to know more about it. I would like to argue on behalf of immigration, but I
1363 would like to be able to argue some of the economic issues that relate to immigration that I know 1364 exist that I just don't know how to study. You know I know the immigration policies of the 1365 United States have affected certain sectors in Mexico that has made it very difficult for Mexican 1366 workers to work because of the trade policies. And it has forced Mexicans out of certain sectors 1367 because there are no jobs. Now you know if many people understood those dynamics they might 1368 see the immigration issue a little differently because to some extent we helped cause it.

1369 I would like to study and know more about the whole Palestinian/Israeli issues. I know a 1370 lot but I don't know enough. You know and I have books that if I took time to study I would 1371 know more so I can be clearer on some of the issues and be able to articulate them. Because I see 1372 myself as one that helps bring information to my community so I would do more of that but this 1373 law office keeps me very busy, more than I want to be. I don't particularly enjoy being busy with 1374 law. I mean it's what I do, I'm pretty good at it but it doesn't excite me, it never has that much 1375 just doing the research and the briefs-

1376

1377 RH: For individual cases and stuff like that?

1378

1379 SW: No it's not that it's just that I can't- I went to school to be a historian-I like history. I love to 1380 get a history book and just spend a weekend reading it. But I'm so bogged down with keeping 1381 the law practice going and reading law and making arguments and appellate briefs and all this 1382 stuff, which I have to do. I don't do it with a great deal of excitement because I think I'm 1383 historian by-I wouldn't say by nature but by training. I love history. And it reinforces my 1384 political work you know. But if you gotta run a practice you gotta run a practice. So if I could do
1385 that over again somehow if I wasn't so tied down with the legal work and I could do more 1386 thinking, more writing. I was asked to write a section of a book that I alluded to earlier and the 1387 book was gonna be published by Third World Press and it was gonna be about black activism in 1388 Chicago from 1960 to 75 and I was asked to write a section. Like a personal political biography.
1389 And I was exciting about it and I started researching meaning going into my own personal 1390 archives, digging out stuff but I just didn't have the time. You know I pulled out a lot of stuff, 1391 did a little writing and then I just ran out of time. And I haven't been able to get back to it. But I
1392 was excited about doing that, I enjoy doing it. So if I had more time to do it I think I would love
1393 to do it but I don't see the time right now-no time soon. Because I've got trials every month this 1394 year except July-the month of July. So it's a lot.

1395

1396 RH: Um to keep reflecting, how has being an activist changed you as a person over the course of 1397 I guess your activism years?

1399 SW: I don't remember otherwise I guess I've been an activist so long. (Pause) For sure two 1400 things changed me. Two streams of thought. One stream of thought is black nationalism. That 1401 stream of thought gave me a different view of myself as a black man, as a member of the black 1402 community, as a member of the human family-coming out of with my origins in Africa. And 1403 that's a positive thought, it's something that I have embraced, it's caused me to study Africa and 1404 see the African world probably differently than most people. So that's the first school of thought.
1405 Another school of thought is the thinking of my connection with other working people. You
1406 know the connection that I developed as I studied you know socialism, socialist ideas and stuff
1407 like that. And that's very important too. Both of those are very strong. One gives me the ability 1408 to understand and examine things-phenomenal-social phenomena by looking at classes and 1409 looking at class kind of conflicts. And the other one gives me a very different and the same 1410 perspective in looking at the issues of race you know and how race plays its way out through 1411 everything in the United States. So the combination of the two I think gives me a balance. And I
1412 didn't have that as I was growing up. I didn't develop that until I became an activist. So as an 1413 activist now having all that and the experience that I've had, I know I'll die as an activist. I know 1414 I won't retire because it's not something you retire from.

1415

1417

1418 SW: You know you keep pushing and you keep organizing you keep doing what you do until 1419 you can't do it no more because that's your life. So that how it changes-you are transformed over 1420 a period of time and you don't go back. I don't see how you could go back. I've been doing what 1421 I do since I first organized that little drive in 1965 to feed people in the south. And that's been 1422 many many years-that was before most of my kids were born and all of that. And so you
1423 transform and I like who I am because I know-because I see how other people are and don't 1424 particularly like who they are. You know I see people who have distanced themselves from any 1425 struggle. I see people who like lawyers for example are just trying to practice law because they 1426 hope they can get rich one day. They don't want to have anything to do with anybody's struggle.
1427 They don't want have anything to do with anything except trying to posture-you know to be 1428 successful and wealthy one day. So you can't even talk to them about struggle-they don't have a 1429 clue. I'm not that and I would not be happy being that kind of person. So I am glad of who I am.
1430 I'm different and I know it and they know it because I hear it all the time, but that's alright you
1431 know. I'm pretty comfortable in my difference. I make a lot of sacrifices but I think that's what's 1432 you're supposed to do.

1433 So the movement has- the struggle involvement has changed me you know I have a good
1434 sense of what's going on in my community, outside of my community-outside the community
1435 you know in different parts of the world. Sometimes if I'm just in the community-I might be 1436 walking down the street- it's not uncommon for somebody to stop me and say aren't you Stan
1437 Willis? And I say yea and I say who are you, and we you know shake hands and-

1438

1439 RH: Celebrity.

1440

1441 SW: Yea yea well I guess you can call it that but I think it's just the recognition that here's 1442 somebody that we know is fighting on our behalf. I think that's how they see that. And 1443 sometimes they just say god bless you keep doing what you're doing. And I like that. And I like 1444 to be that kind of person that's the kind of person I want to be. And you know that's the kind of 1445 person I intend to always be. I can't see anything that would drastically change that. I think I
1446 rather be that person than one who is in this office now who is just trying to scrape out and find a 1447 way to find great wealth one day. Because you gotta look at yourself in the mirror you know.
1448 You know all these problems are going on. You know there are people starving in the United 1449 States, you walk out of here you are going to see homeless people, you know that children are 1450 not being educated in the city of Chicago, you know that the prisons are filling up with black
1451 men and Latino men and if you're not doing anything about it then I think that's a problem. I 1452 really do. I mean we are all connected.

1453 So I think my involvement has changed me forever. And I'm glad of it you know.

1454

1455 RH: What would you say you are most proud of on that note?

1456

1457 SW: Most proud of?

1458

1459 RH: Yea

1460

1461 SW: (Pause) I don't know really. I think I'm proud that uh-I'm proud to be here. I'm proud that I
1462 went through what I've gone through in terms of the work I've done. Some of it has been done
1463 very well, I've learned a lot. I've learned a lot by myself. I've learned about how to be healthy 1464 which I think is critical. I don't know very many to be quite frank-I don't know too many-very

1465 many 68 year old men or women for that matter who get up every morning, rain, shine, snow or 1466 sleet, and run a mile or two every morning, who is very careful about what they and careful
1467 about getting sleep and all that. And it's not a fad it's just the way I live, I've been living this 1468 way for a while. And I'm pretty healthy you know I lift-I do my work out in the morning.
1469 Typically my workout is -right now because it changes it evolves-I usually do 20 sit-ups or more.
1470 I do 50-right now 50 to 60 sometimes 70 pushups.

1472 RH: I couldn't even do that many.

1473

1474 SW: Most people can't. That's what I'm saying. And then I do some yoga stuff you know
1475 stretching and breathing. And I lift some light weights just for muscle development-15 bar bells
1476 that kind of stuff. And then I go and run every morning. And I like being that way. And then I'm 1477 careful about food. I cook my own food typically; I hardly ever buy anything from restaurants.
1478 You saw me eat that sandwich that's not common with me. I typical cook because my son is at 1479 home and he cooks a little bit and I cook for both of us. And I like it like that. My food-
1480 vegetables, fish, you know poultry I buy at whole foods so I don't absorb chemicals you know I 1481 think that's important.

1482 So I think you know I have evolved to be close to the person-you know there is still a lot
1483 of work to do but in some ways I'm pretty close to the person that I think I should be you know
1484 in terms of how I eat, how I sleep. My relationships with people are pretty wholesome. My 1485 children are-my relationship with my children is very solid. I am very supportive. They are very 1486 supportive of me. My daughter Akiza is pretty political, my daughter Eisha is not. You know
1487 that's fine. My fiancé is very political, very supportive and I'm very supportive. So things are 1488 pretty good. But it's you know there's still politics and struggle you know it's a lifestyle. You
1489 know even the food you eat I think -the fact that you decide that you want to find a way to 1490 contribute to a better environment. So I had this discussion with my son about how can we do 1491 that. Let's start getting rid of some of this plastic you know start bringing-you know that kind of 1492 stuff. I think that's part of-people who have been in the struggle evolve to try to live for the 1493 future, try to contribute to the future. And I like that about myself and I'm glad that I did that and 1494 I'm glad I am who I am right now.

1495

1496 RH: That's cool. Um two more questions actually: what event or person was the most influential 1497 in your experience as an activist?

1499 SW: Uh two people. No event that I can think of. One person: Malcolm X. Very important, his 1500 speeches, his persona, his commitment to the struggle, his outlook about-especially after he left
1501 the nation of Islam he talked about the world struggle, he talked about the world revolution
1502 which you know was realistic. And he died as a result of it. I think history maybe at some point
1503 will figure out the connection between his death and the United States government. And then the 1504 other person was a friend of mine. His name is Bob Rhoads. Bob Rhoads introduced me to 1505 socialist thought. He was a theoretician. He was-we met at the University of Chicago. He was 1506 studying philosophy. And we had these classes and we studied because we all were activists.
1507 And he was the person who led the classes-he was the one who really understood the theory and 1508 attempt to explain it. We are still friends. We were together last weekend. And so he took me in a 1509 whole different direction. As a working class young man, to know that there-theoretical-social 1510 theoretical ways of looking at myself as part of a working class community. You know and that 1511 also feeds into one's way of struggling. I didn't know that-it was new. He was very good-he was 1512 very helpful.

1513 So those two people I would say contributed more to my outlook, because there's a
1514 nationalist part of it comes from Malcolm and then you know kind of international outlook that I
1515 am embracing now through the human rights movement. And then there was Bob Rhoads who 1516 introduced another layer on that and that's the layer of class struggle and working class people.
1517 In fact I was honored last night at the Coalition of Black Trade Unionist had their annual banquet
1518 and I was given an award as a-they give a community service-most of the awards they give are to 1519 people in the trade union movement and they had this one award that they give to someone they 1520 think is contributing to the community- community service award. And they honored me by 1521 giving me the community service award last night at a banquet. So that was a nice gesture, good 1522 feeling. So those are the two I would say that had the greatest influence you know then anybody.

1523

1524 RH: Um ok last question that I have written down, what do you still think needs to be done in 1525 South Africa?

1527 SW: I think there has to be a way, hopefully a non violent way- I don't know if it's possible-that 1528 the people who fought for a new South Africa are able to participate in a new South Africa-that 1529 is the mass of people who are still living in these shanty towns- I think there has to be some form
1530 of land distribution-redistribution. It's unfair that the people who benefitted from apartheid still 1531 benefit from apartheid you know from their relationship. Now for sure there are some black 1532 people and some who were part of the anti apartheid movement who have become very well off
1533 because they were able to get in, they had contacts with the ANC and they started businesses.
1534 And that's fine, I think that's fair. But it's unfair that the land is not redistributed, that the masses
1535 of black Africans are still really struggling after going through an anti apartheid movement and

1536 it's going to resolve itself in some way. There have been more people focused on Zimbabwe
1537 because of land distribution which I think is unfair. But there have been more white farmers
1538 killed in South Africa than there have even close to Zimbabwe. There have been over 100
1539 (unknown word) over the land. In Zimbabwe I think there have been probably 3 or 4. But the 1540 western world has decided to attack Zimbabwe I think largely because of the land distribution.
1541 And they don't want to see that as a pattern, because if you distribute land without a reaction to 1542 the western world, then you might decide to distribute or take over the oil and the box site and all 1543 these other resources. So I think they are sending this message because there's no other reason.
1544 Cause you can say well Mugabe has been in office 25 years. Well so have three or four other
1545 leaders on the continent but they are not attacking them. So I think it's just focused on the whole
1546 land thing. And they never talk about the land they talk about president Mugabe took the land 1547 from the white farmers but they don't talk about where the white farmers got the land from. And 1548 of course they took it from the African people so it's unfair. But the reason Mugabe is supported 1549 by the leadership of almost-all over the continent is because they know it's unfair. And they 1550 know that land should be redistributed you know. And it would have been if the west had 1551 committed more resources in this case in Zimbabwe.

1552 So I would like to see the people in South Africa benefit from the resources in South Africa
1553 and they're not, not the black South Africans. And that's what the whole fight was about. So
1554 until it happens-I would rather see it not happen as a result of civil war but I think that's more up
1555 to the people who are controlling the land and these western powers who could very easily say
1556 ok let's intervene in some way and work with the South African government and try to figure out
1557 a way to help assist to avoid a civil war. They could do that but they don't. So we'll see. But 1558 that's the sad commentary that we at this point after all this struggle-but of course Americans
1559 never were supporting the anti apartheid movement you know the government was forced. So, so
1560 that's what I would like to see. I don't know how that could happen yet but uh-it might end up 1561 with a lot of violence and a lot of people dying you know that don't have to die if there was more
1562 proactivity on part of the western countries. Because they ultimately are the countries that 1563 benefitted at least the corporations benefitted, not working people so much in the western 1564 countries. Well-

1565

1566 RH: Is there anything else you would like to add at the end of this interview?

1567

1568 SW: No I don't think so. It was some thought provoking questions. Did you come up with that 1569 all by yourself?

1570

1571 RH: Ha some of them yes.

1572

1573 SW: That was very thought provoking.

1574

1575 RH: I'm not as dumb as I look.

1576

1577 SW: No you don't look dumb I mean I know a little bit about your school, you came from a good 1578 school and um-so tell me about your jazz, how did you get into jazz?

1580 RH: We will talk about that right-

1581

1582 SW: After you turn off the tape recorder.
