1 Lynette Reid: K. My name is Lynette Reid and I am interviewing Zeva Schub on April
2 13th, 2010 on the third floor of the Columbia College Chicago Library. Would you please
3 spell your name and state the years you were involved with the Anti-Apartheid
4 Movement in Chicago.

5
6 Zeva Schub: K. My name is Zeva, Z-E-V-A, Schub, S-C-H-U-B. I was involved
7 directly with the Anti-Apartheid Movement probably from the mid to late seventies, um,
8 past the election in ninety-four we continued to be involved in things for, um, several
9 years after that. I still have some connections with the Anti; there isn't a big movement
10 anymore, but for a number of years after that, so I don't know, at least the late nineties.

11
12 LR: When and where were you born?

13
14 ZS: I was born in Chicago. In Oct—October 29th, 1951.

15
16 LR: Where did you live while growing up?

17
18 ZS: I lived in on the south side of Chicago.

19
20 LR: Where was your father born?

21
22 ZS: Uh, my father was born in Palestine.

23
24 LR: Where was your mother born?

25
26 ZS: In Cleveland.

27
28 LR: Can you describe what your neighborhood was like while growing up?

29
30 ZS: Uh, it was a neighborhood with lots of kids; it was, you know, small, I mean,
31 everything's relative. I, it was a relatively small house, certainly by today's standards,
32 but then again I knew people who came to the house who came from nothing who 33 thought it was amazing, so um, it was basically a, I would say middle to lower middle 34 class neighborhood, so yeah.

35
36 LR: What type of home life did you have?

37
38 ZS: I had a good one.

39
40 LR: What type of relationships did you have with your siblings?

41
42 ZS: Well, um you know, we were siblings, we, we fought and made up and defended
43 each other tooth and nail, um you know, and we remain very close.

44
45 LR: What religious traditions did you practice while growing up?

46

47 ZS: Um, I was raised in Judaism.

48

49 LR: Where did you go to college and why did you choose to go there?

50

51 ZS: I went to the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana. Um I chose to go there
52 because I knew I had to go to a state school, that was all I could afford, or my family
53 could afford, and um, at the time and I think probably still is con—it was like the best
54 state school, so that was my goal.

55

56 LR: What was your favorite part of college?

57

58 ZS: My activism. [smiles]

59

60 LR: Why did you choose your major that you majored in?

61

62 ZS: I chose my major because it got me out of school the fastest. [we laugh] That's 63 really, I got to the point where I had to choose a major and I choose chose one with the 64 least requirements.

65

66 LR: Who was the most influential person in your life up until this point?

67

68 ZS: Up, this point now?

69

70 LR: Up until—

71

72 ZS: college?

73

74 LR: college.

75

76 ZS: Hm, um, I don't, I mean, it's. I don't that there's a specific person, I mean, 77 obviously my family, my parents were influential in a lot of ways. Um, I was certainly
78 impacted by the Civil Rights Movement, um, the Anti-War Movement, so you know, I
79 was certainly impacted by people like King, Martin Luther King, um, but I don't, you
80 know, I don't know that there's a single person. I was, uh, aware of what was going on 81 around me, and so I would, at different times I would be impacted by what was going on.

82

83 LR: What happened that made you realize Apartheid was going on in South Africa?

84

85 ZS: Well, as I said I was active in, very active in college, I mean, basically that's what I
86 did in college and, you know, I started to hear about things and, um, the big issue by the 87 time I went to college was the Vietnam War and that, that was the big issue on campus.
88 There were other things and we, I was involved in other things, but that was the biggest
89 thing going on then. And then I started to hear things and then I came back to Chicago
90 and, um, started hearing more and my sister was involved in the Anti-Apartheid

91 Movement more heavily in Chicago by then, so it just, through activism you start to hear
92 about, and being interested in issues you start to hear about things.

93

94 LR: Why did you become an activist?

95

96 ZS: I just, from the earliest I can remember. Just remember, um, remember being
97 outraged by people being treated badly, um, by injustice, so um, I remember being, you
98 know, appalled by the things I saw on T.V., you know, regarding the Civil Rights
99 Movement when I was a little younger even and, uh you know, the water and the dogs
100 and all that, and um, just hearing about things and thinking, this can't be. Um, I grew up
101 in a home where we talked about the Holocaust, so that, um and, I, then there were, you
102 know, just walking on the streets and seeing, you know, poverty or there were things
103 going on in Chicago, there was, uh, just all kinds of stuff going on in terms of, there was 104 uh, contract homebuyers league thing, which I remember seeing people being put out on 105 the street and I won't go into the details, but I just always remembered being very aware
106 of, uh, what was going on. Being scared to death that I was going to be blown up by a
107 bomb, you know, the nuclear bomb, the bomb, so, I just think I can't pinpoint a, a
108 particular thing, I just remember always being conscious and aware of it.

109

110 LR: What or who influenced you to stand against Apartheid?

111

112 ZS: Um, I think, you know, once I found out more and more about it, just the injustice, I
113 mean, just outrageous, I was, that's what influenced me, I mean people, as I said my 114 sister was involved in CIDsA [Coalition for Illinois Divestment in South Africa], um,
115 which was the Anti, the organization, uh, in Chicago already when I got back here and I
116 was involved in various other things when I came back to Chicago, but um, you know,
117 what influenced me was, it, just the outrage, the rage, so.

118

119 LR: What group did you join?

120

121 ZS: Well, CIDsA. And okay, I'm so bad with acronyms and we changed our name later
122 on, so it should [takes out piece of paper and a pen to write out acronym] Chicago
123 Coalition, oh wait, (whispers to self trying to figure out acronym) Chicagooo, I think it
124 was Chicago Coalition, oh, Chicago Illinois maybe Coalition for Divestment in South
125 Africa. I don't remember anymore, but it was CIDsA, and uh, as I said I'm terrible with 126 acronyms, but it was a coalition organization that was state wide, um, that was formed to 127 actively fight apartheid in South Africa and specifically, um, to get the state to divest its,
128 any financial dealings (clinking of bracelets throughout).

129

130 LR: Describe the structure of the organization.

131

132 ZS: Going back a lot of years, okay. Um, basically it was an organization, you know,
133 we had chairs and, you know, officers and stuff and it was a lot of activists. It was like
134 one of, the people in that organization are some of the most wonderful people I've ever
135 met in my life. It was a very diverse organization, um, and it, but the organization itself

136 was a coalition also of other organizations, so a lot of what we did was in coalition, eh
137 um, our actions were mostly in coalition.

138
139 LR: What was your role in the organization?
140

141 ZS: Well I was a member and I think for a while I may have been a treasurer or 142 something. Something I was not that great at but, um, but basically I was just, I was very 143 involved in the organization, I did lots of stuff, I was very active, but I was mostly a 144 member.

145
146 LR: What other organizations or groups did you join?
147

148 ZS: Then? Or ever? Or?
149

150 LR: Well—
151

152 ZS: I mean, I've been active in lots of organizations throughout, um, I've been active in,
153 um, organizations. I was active, very active in, uh, organizations opposing the U.S.
154 government's policies in Central America which went on in the seventies. Another awful
155 situation, I was, uh, involved in, um, I was involved in groups supporting, um, people
156 who had been released from prison and helping them to get back into society and 157 opposing, kind of, the whole system. I was involved in, uh, Anti-War stuff. I was 158 involved in, uh, in something called Democratic, Democratic Socialists of America for a
159 while. Um, I've been involved in more recently in, uh, in organizations well against 160 various other wars that have gone on, and um, also I uh, uh, the Middle East, the 161 Palestinians in support of the Palestinians. Um, and then for a little while, uh, I did one
162 thing where we tried to connect, this was many years ago when I was involved in South
163 Africa, put together sort of, it wasn't an organization it was just put together, an event
164 that got us together that, um, and we called it One Struggle. Central America, South
165 Africa, the Caribbean, so just to associate like that we're all in this. And then one of the 166 things we used to do in CIDS we did a walk every year for Soweto and then we walked
167 in sup—of the, uh, massacre and the whole uprising in Soweto and so, um, but we always 168 connected it to something in the U.S., in a community in the U.S., so that the ideas that 169 every, you know, were not in isolation. And I'm sure there were other things I've been in 170 and involved in, um you know uh, that I'm just not even thinking of but basically things
171 around race, class, war, justice, you know, all those, international oppression, those kinds
172 of struggles. I'm just not—
173

174 LR: How did your parents respond to your involvement in the Anti-Apartheid
175 Movement?
176

177 ZS: Um, well my dad was dead by then but my mom was fine, I mean she agreed, you
178 know, once she knew about it she certainly was supportive of it.
179

180 LR: What type of support did the rest of your family and friends give you?
181

182 ZS: Well, my sister was in before. Um, I come from a very supportive family, and um,
183 so I was not in a situation where people were opposing me on a personal level.
184 Everybody was very supportive. I mean, everybody may not 100%, we don't always 185 agree with each other 100% by any means, but um, we're very supportive of each other
186 and basically, um, my family, you know, very much just in terms of Anti-Apartheid there
187 would be no issue at all.

188

189 LR: How did your heritage or race affect your involvement?

190

191 ZS: I mean. I don't, I don't think of it particularly, I think that it, you know, I mean 192 there could be arguments that having been raised with a consciousness of, um, opposing 193 oppression or the Holocaust, you know, that kind of hatred, um, I think it impacted me in 194 that way, but on the other hand, um, there are a lot a Jews who are on the other side or 195 were on the other side, and what's going on in, in Israel now and Palestine is basically the 196 same thing as went on in South Africa and it's the Jews who, it's Israel and people who 197 are based in the Jewish faith who are doing it so I think in my case maybe it did have an 198 influence, but everything's subject to interpretation I guess, um, there's a lot of evil that's 199 also been done in the name of Judaism.

200

201 LR: So what factor did religion play in your activism?

202

203 ZS: I think, I think, I don't, don't know that I'd have anything else, I mean, I, in terms of 204 my activism I don't, that it wasn't direct. I didn't ever do it through an organization or 205 anything, religious organization and by the time I was really active in Anti-Apartheid
206 stuff I was not practicing any religion, so I mean, I'm, I was born and raised Jewish but 207 I'm not practicing, so I don't think that it has any role.

208

209 LR: Tell me about the first protest or demonstration that you participated in.

210

211 ZS: You know I saw that ques—I, I ah, can't think of the first e-e-even for South Africa.
212 I'm not, I don't, you know, I sort of have a really good memory for some things and none
213 at all for others. I don't remember my which was the first thing, I, I, you know, in terms
214 of demonstrations. I started getting involved in some smaller stuff even in high school,
215 nothing big, I was pretty quiet in high school, but um, wanting to be, you know, seeing
216 the march on Washington and wanting to be there, and um, I, I, I remember doing, um,
217 some smaller demon--, you know, I did some demonstrations in Chicago in high school.
218 I don't remember what the first one was, and uh, just immediately in college got involved
219 in stuff, so I don't have a date or a particular (we laugh) one to tell you it's all one, yeah.

220

221 LR: What was the most significant event that you participated in?

222

223 ZS: (sighs) Event or protest?

224

225 LR: Either or.

226

227 ZS: You know, It's a, I think picking out a particular most significant, cause very often 228 different things have different, um, impact or significance, and um, you know, there may 229 be a little piece, you see somebody or you talk to somebody or something happens and an
 230 event that isn't that big, but that little piece of it is significant, I, I mean you know,
 231 certainly a significant, um, there were many, many significant events. Something that,
 232 the, that had obvious significance would be, um, doing monitoring the first election in 19,
 233 uh, 94 and I would say the most, something that just had an enormous impact on me was 234 that. The election was three days and the first day, um, was for people who had, uh,
 235 challenges or, or particular, uh you know, people who were older, or had disabilities, you
 236 know, that was a little harder and they, and, and, even the, and the second day was more
 237 general, and both those days, I remember seeing people line up and to vote, and, and just 238 people who had absolutely nothing, I mean you know, they really had nothing monetary,
 239 um, or material. And, but they would, they had come putting on their, obviously their 240 best clothing and their best outfits. This was so important for the blacks in South Africa,
 241 um, and the pride, and um, the dignity peop--, you know, people who, um, couldn't read,
 242 couldn't write, um, knew what, you know, they knew more than people here know about
 243 elections, um, who can read and write. But just, and the courage it took, I mean, there
 244 were people in that first election, cause there were farm workers whose master basically 245 brought them to, uh vote and they were very afraid that they would see and that they
 246 would be hurt for their, I mean, just the pride and the courage and what, eh, these, eh,
 247 people had gone through and, you know, that was momentous, I mean, that was life
 248 changing.

249
 250 LR: Were you involved in, um, any protests that you were ever arrested?

251
 252 ZS: I was not arrested, I um, I just didn't happen, I uh, and I'm a lawyer and so what I 253 would often do is go to make, you know, to be the person to try and help the people who
 254 were arrested, so I went many times to assist people, so that was more my role.

255
 256 LR: Were you, um, ever used as an undercal, undercover ally?

257
 258 ZS: Um, no and I don't, you know, I'm not sure exactly. I mean, I know what an 259 undercover ally might be, I'm not sure exactly what it's meant in this context, but I think 260 what, which much more, what common than people from the movement infiltrating other,
 261 um, organizations is the government, um, and it's well established during the period, you
 262 know, the whole, mmm, that activist period infiltrated leftist organizations. It infiltrated,
 263 uh, the Black Panthers really well known, um, it infiltrated the Central America,
 264 particularly El Salvador stuff, but other organizations. It infiltrated, and you know, when 265 we would do protests whether they were Anti-War protests or Anti-Apartheid protests
 266 there would be cops, uh, taping us. So that's more the infiltration, I, I don't, I wasn't and 267 I don't know of anybody particularly. I mean, we would go into places, um, as a white
 268 person I could go into places and try and um, you know, advocate and educate in a
 269 particular way or in my community, but um I don't know, I wouldn't call that infiltrating.
 270 You know, it's, it's a different kind of thing so there's a different role I think as a white
 271 person you, I do have a role to educate within my own community but I don't think I
 272 wouldn't call that infiltrating.

273

274 LR: What was it like coordinating events for your organization?

275

276 ZS: Oh, um, you know, it was a very collective group, and um, you know, there, it, there
277 was often, um, you know, some chaos and getting things together and people who were
278 very organized and very together, but I, I mean, working in the group to me has only, you
279 know, good memories basically. I mean, I shouldn't say that, I'm sure there bad
280 memories and if I could pull them up, but and you try not to, but it, it was a very, um,
281 overall it was a group that, um, got along and worked together and supportive, uh, and
282 uh, had a good sense of cooperation, uh within the group, you know. I think there things
283 all of us could, could've done, um, to cooperate better outside, and we tried to do that, but
284 um, yeah, I, I don't know how, I don't, you know, we would put things together and, you
285 know, you learn more as you go on and do more, so yeah, I don't remember any real 286 specific events.

287

288 LR: Where did you go to speak out against Apartheid?

289

290 ZS: (sighs) We would go to like schools and churches, and um, where I went 291 specifically. I was always a little shy as a speaker and I've gotten better, um, but in that
292 period I was much more shy, and um, but I would go with people a lot, and um, so it
293 would be going to, um, to I think churches and schools and, uh, you know, just any, go to 294 other organizations to get support for events and things like that.

295

296 LR: How did you stay informed?

297

298 ZS: Um, well we would do that somewhat in meetings, you know, people would, um,
299 say what was going on. You'd try and read the papers but it's hard to understand now,
300 it was, the internet wasn't a big thing then and I remember, um, one guy Basil Clunie,
301 who somebody I'm sure has interviewed or is going to.

302

303 LR: mmhm

304

305 ZS: He had some, you know, he did some computer stuff with people we had, um, a
306 sister, uh, community in Alexandra, and he, there were connections and this and that and 307 he'd say they say they find things this way and I was like what?, you know I didn't know.
308 So I mean it's kind of ridiculous when you think of it now cause you can just go to the 309 computer, but of course there people, lots of them didn't have it, but even things like fax
310 machines were, not for us but for them, so um, you know, you just, people would, we 311 would tell each other what was there and people at meetings would say, oh I found this 312 out or that out. Um, we even had a newsletter and stuff, so um, but it was different than 313 now, you know, and no cable T.V., I mean, maybe there was but not like you would have 314 it now.

315

316 LR: So um, how did you earn a living during this time?

317

318 ZS: I was a lawyer. Is that what you mean like what was my?

319

320 LR: yeah

321

322 ZS: I worked at legal, at different kinds of non-profits mostly.

323

324 LR: How did being involved in Anti-Apartheid affect your job?

325

326 ZS: It didn't.

327

328 LR: Describe the most memorable person that disagreed with you while you were 329 fighting against Apartheid.

330

331 ZS: Huh. I can't. I mean, I can picture people yelling on the streets and stuff, um I 332 can't, I don't have a person I can think of.

333

334 LR: When did you lose hope in the cause?

335

336 ZS: I wa—never lost hope in fighting Apartheid, I mean, I knew, there were moments
337 when you'd get frustrated and disappointed, um, but I didn't lose hope.

338

339 LR: What songs do you associate with the Movement?

340

341 ZS: Well the most is, uh, the national anthem is probably the one I associate most.

342

343 LR: What other movements did you participate in?

344

345 ZS: I think we kinda went over that right?

346

347 LR: yeah

348

349 ZS: So, I mean, I can repeat it but I don't want you to have to type all that again (we 350 laugh).

351

352 LR: How did you keep all your activism efforts straight?

353

354 ZS: Oh, you know. Some of them were sequential to some degree, um, a lot of them,
355 but I think we all tried to support each other and I think of all of these as one, as one
356 struggle, you know, that they, um, I don't think of things in, uh, uh, issues in isolation, I
357 think that that's a mistake, so I it wasn't a question of keeping them straight from each
358 other, um, and you know, I tended to be, I learned that you can't be totally immersed in 359 everything all the time; you're gonna burn out. Um so, you know, there are various 360 levels but even if I weren't completely immersed in this particular issue I would go to 361 support, um, you know. Like immigration now is another thing I've been somewhat
362 active in, um, you know, because I may not do it all the time, but I'm active in groups
363 and I, you know, will go to support, uh, movements, demonstrations, issues, so, um,

364 organizations have events so that's it. So that's the other issue I've been active in, I 365 forgot.

366

367 LR: How did the killings at Sharpeville affect your opinions about South Africa?

368

369 ZS: Well, you know, Sharpeville, Soweto, the killing of, the assassination, murder of 370 Steve Biko. All those kinds of all these events, um, were part of my, you know, I didn't 371 know about everything at the time, um, or if I heard about them they may not have been 372 as clear, but you know, the U.S. Press didn't cover stuff at all, I mean, there was so little 373 press on, um, South Africa at that point, so a lot of stuff I didn't know about until later,
374 but it all, became when I started to hear about it and I started to read it, it all, you know,
375 was apart of what motivated me and convinced me more and outraged me, so they all
376 apart of the, uh, horrors, uh, of Apartheid. The human rights violations of all of it, you
377 know, to put it the language of, you know, sort of the human rights lingo.

378

379 LR: Would you like to describe, um, the walks that you did to remember Soweto?

380

381 ZS: Okay so every year we did a, um, a walk on, a around June 16th and, um, we would 382 raise money and um, we, you know, it it's like all those walks and we'd walk through 383 different neighborhoods in Chicago and so we would raise consciousness and raise 384 money and then donate it.

385

386 LR: How did other assassinations affect you?

387

388 ZS: Well, I think, you know, they were just more things that made me aware, and um,
389 just very conscious of how messed up the world was, you know, that people would be 390 assassinated, and you know, I remember, I mean, King and Bobby Kennedy were 391 assassinated just a few months, a couple months like April, June, you know, the same
392 year and I remembered just like kind of my head going like what? You know, and just 393 trying to figure out how all this fit in, um so, it wasn't, I mean, I didn't it wasn't like I
394 revered particularly, it, it wasn't the particular even person, um, I mean, you know, I
395 respected Bobby Kennedy, I Jack Kennedy I was much younger but it was like shocking
396 cause I was in elementary school, um, so I think it just is like part of the, um,
397 vulnerability of people and the recognition like I just even if it isn't conscious, when that,
398 you realize that everything is tenuous, so, I think it, it just. And because things like that 399 get lots of press it, you know, just makes you, even as a little kid, I mean, you know, we
400 all knew John Kennedy was assassinated, you couldn't miss it even in elementary school, 401 so.

402

403 LR: How did you participate in trying to fund the schoolchildren in Africa?

404

405 ZS: How do what, I'm sorry?

406

407 LR: How did you participate in trying to fund the schoolchildren in Africa?

408

409 ZS: Fund the sc--

410

411 LR: Fund, yeah for the, the children in Africa while in school.

412

413 ZS: We didn't, I mean, we would raise money and we would give em to organizations
414 and stuff but um it wasn't, our was really movement to, um, support groups in South
415 Africa that were fighting Apartheid and were supporting, um, the black struggle and the 416 coloured struggle and in South Africa it was both, you know, they made that designation,
417 um, it, we didn't, I mean, we would give money to, you know, like, you know, when 418 we'd do the walkathon or something we might designate it but it was, it was more
419 movement oriented and changing the system because part of Apartheid was denying 420 education and so, you wanted to support kids getting education but really the way you did
421 that was to tear down Apartheid cause you could maybe educate a few kids if you got 422 some money but you needed the, the focus of our attention was not so much like there's 423 much more focus now on service, and um, and direct giving in that kind of, uh, now
424 that's, I wouldn't call it activism but that kind of involvement and, it was, that, it's a very
425 different kind of thought process and mentality. Yes you wanna help people individually
426 and we'd do that but it was much more focused on changing the whole system so all kids
427 could get the education because Soweto was around education, the kids, you know, that 428 was the uprising of the youth in protest to how, their inferior education and the 429 restrictions and the requirements and all that, so um, it wasn't so much giving money for 430 kids and their education.

431

432 LR: How did you feel about the banning of our teams from playing sports against South
433 Africa?

434

435 ZS: Yeah, I mean, that was a no brainer to me, I just, they, you, we had no business
436 playing to, to play with the South African teams would be to accept Apartheid as being 437 okay. They didn't let blacks play, they didn't, you know, it was a totally segregated,
438 more than segregated it was an Apartheid system, so, you know, I totally supported that.

439

440 LR: What was your reaction to Regan's election in 1980?

441

442 ZS: I was not pleased. I was very angry.

443

444 LR: How did you feel about the Regan Administration's policies towards South Africa?

445

446 ZS: The same, I mean, outraged, fury, rage. All the above.

447

448 LR: How did you participate in divestment?

449

450 ZS: Well, I think, I think we've kind of gone over that. That the organization was really
451 focused on getting, um, the city and the state, and, and unions, and college, and all, you
452 know, get as many major player, universities, whatever to divest their funds from South
453 Africa, so that, that was a major focus of the organization. It wasn't the only focus but it
454 was the very major focus. We also wanted them to divest steel, which was coming from 455 South Africa. But basically that was the main tactic, I mean, we're not, you know, taking

456 up arms against the government and saying okay, you know, whatever, um, the tactic
 457 was, um, to get as much divestment as possible to undermine the, um, the government of 458 South Africa, and so you know, that was how we felt we could be most, um, productive
 459 and useful. In addition to supporting we'd have demonstrations at the Consulate there
 460 were all kinds of things, but um, you know, in South Africa people would take up, you
 461 know, that became a whole part in um, I didn't really mean to be flippant about taking up
 462 arms because that was a serious issue, and uh, South Africa, and uh, and a legitimate one
 463 in my mind, but um, you know, here thinking of what we could do that's how we thought
 464 we could be most effective in, um, in pressuring the government, and there was a whole
 465 issue here, um, and there was a struggle around that because people there were, there
 466 were, some people who said if you divest the people you're hurting are the people in 467 South Africa, the, the people who live in South Africa, the blacks, and, and we shouldn't
 468 be doing that, we should be engaging. There's this Reverend Sullivan and this whole 469 struggle around this, and um, from our experience in people in within our group and had
 470 many had been to South Africa others, you know, we had contact and we were engaged
 471 in and from everything we knew, and I firmly believed this, that um, people there 472 supported the divi—divestment because they were never getting anywhere, and so the 473 government had to go, so, that's what we did.

474

475 LR: What did your organization do for Dennis Brutus?

476

477 ZS: Um, you know, we supported him, um, when he was here and his struggles but we 478 were part of a coalition that supported him.

479

480 LR: What were your feelings towards Harold Washington's election?

481

482 ZS: Oh I was ecstatic. I was part, I mean, I worked for Harold Washington. I, uh, very 483 much supported him all the way through, you know, you don't get a sense of it now but
 484 after he was elected I, you know, wearing his pin, I had people walk up to me and call me
 485 a traitor and, you know, absolute nonsense, you know, racist nonsense like that but, um,
 486 yeah I was thrilled. I was at McCormick Place both times, his primary and afterwards,
 487 so, and I worked for him, so I was thrilled.

488

489 LR: What did you do for him?

490

491 ZS: Ah, I mean, I wasn't, I didn't do as much as many people, but I, you know, I, I, I 492 campaigned for him.

493

494 LR: How did—

495

496 ZS: And I worked Election Day too, I mean, I campaigned in the campaign and worked 497 Election Day.

498

499 LR: How did Walter Sisulu's visit to Chicago impact you?

500

501 ZS: Well, that was really, I mean, what impacted me about that was he, he was. Here's a
 502 man who is a major player an incredible leader of the Anti-Apartheid Movement in South
 503 Africa and he's released from prison after, god, many, many, many years and then he,
 504 he's, he comes to Chicago, he's invited and, and he's an unquestionable hero and, and by 505 that time, um, you know, lots of big names and people and organizations wanted to meet,
 506 you know, want him to come and even the Mayor, I mean you know, it was just big deal
 507 and he did that stuff but what impressed me is he said No one thing I am going to do is I
 508 wanna have a small, I wanna have a meeting just with the activists, people who have been
 509 struggling with us, who've supported us throughout this, I wanna meet with them not in 510 these big events and, so um, he, you know, in the in the middle of all this he took some 511 time, he, he made sure he had time to come to I think we were in the basement of a
 512 church like in a community room, and just to, to talk to us, come and shake, you know,
 513 shake our hands and talk to us and thank us, you know, he said I couldn't come and not 514 personally thank you for this is what we, you know, this is what sustained us, and your 515 efforts are what helped us become liberated, I mean, I was just blown away that, that he 516 really thought grassroots, he was amazing.

517
 518 LR: What did Mandela's release mean to you?

519
 520 ZS: Oh, I mean that was just a, it, it's an inexplicable highlight because he's a symbol,
 521 you know, somebody becomes a symbol, I mean, of course all, you know, Sisulu, all of 522 them, um, were symbols too but he was the symbol, became them symbol and I have a
 523 big poster that I still have on the wall that it's a beautiful poster Free, um, Mandela and
 524 all the South African political prisoners, right, so he was sort of ah the icon so to speak
 525 and for I think probably like twenty-four years no one even had a picture of him, I mean,
 526 there were pictures of him when he went into prison but this is a drawing kind of in 527 shadow, uh you know, like not a, um, and I mean, you can see his face but its, but its 528 from when he was, you know, like in his forties when he went into prison and you, no
 529 one just had any idea even of what he looked like for all those years so it's kind of 530 incredible he was, he, um, was a symbol so seeing him walk out was like such a
 531 monumental milestone of freedom, you know, it was just (electronic feedback)
 532 unbelievable and then shortly he came, he went to Detroit, hmm I, I think it, like not long
 533 after that big, we were in the baseball stadium and I, I went Detroit just to see him in, um,
 534 and then to Chicago and so we didn't see him after that but it was like and then we had 535 parties that was great, you know, a party to celebrate his release in Chicago, it was 536 amazing there's some, uh, videotape of it, you know, just all the different groups were 537 there and, but I, you, I can't explain it was like the most incredible high (chuckles) I
 538 mean, i—i—i—there are certain moments which are incredible you know even at that 539 moment they're incredible moments in your life and they're incredible, um, like, I, I can't
 540 think of another word now but like highs like you gotta like oh my god. The night
 541 Harold Washington won the primary in when we were all in, um, McCormick Place, and 542 you know, lakeshore people were parked along Lakeshore Drive bec—and the cops
 543 weren't doing any—it was just this incredible thing and it's the moment of ecstasy that
 544 you overcome this incredible, um, obstacle of the city and the racism and it's still there
 545 but if you, you just this struggle came th—you triumphed in this moment of struggle and 546 its before, you know all the complications of being in office, so it was amazing and but

547 and Mandela it was just like you don't wanna lose hope but I didn't know that I would
 548 ever actually see his release ali--, you know, him released alive, I mean, before that I, a
 549 little bit before as it lead up to it so and what it symbolized, um, was, you know, I knew
 550 this was like, um, a moment of rare, uh, just a rare, rare glorious moment.

551
 552 LR: How did it, how was it decided that you got to go to South Africa's first election?
 553

554 ZS: Oh, I mean, I had been in, uh, involved in the Anti-Apartheid Movement and um,
 555 and the folks in South Africa particularly the ANC [African National Congress] and 556 people knew our group, you know, and different groups and they, um, asked that we send 557 international observers so I wanted to go. I actually, um, at that point I think we were
 558 CCISSA [Chicago Committee in Solidarity with Southern Africa] cause we stopped
 559 being so much coalition and I forgot what it's, Chicago something in Solidarity with 560 Southern Africa we broadened it not just to be South Africa at that point, um, but I, um,
 561 so I, I think I actually ended up going with the National Lawyers Guild just because, um,
 562 the way it played out in what they had set up and I went with time but it's all the same
 563 thing. I was I got to go, I went because I'd been active in Anti-Apartheid work, and um, I
 564 expressed an interest in it, and you know, they screened you, I mean like, we talked when 565 we, we sent a group of people through CIDsA or CCISSA whatever, um, but we, like I
 566 was in the sorta group that screened folks who wanted to go because, you know, it b—it
 567 by the end it became it's one of those things that by the end, the very end of the Anti-
 568 Apartheid Movement and when Mand--, after Melon, when Mandela was released and 569 shortly after it's like you would think no one had ever supported Apartheid and every 570 body had been part of, you know, everybody was jumping on the bandwagon which is
 571 alright, fine, good but, you know, we didn't want people going who didn't really know
 572 what was going on and who, you know, whatever, so we did talk to, you know, we kind
 573 of screened people, so I was part of the screening group, um, but I actually ended up
 574 going through the National Lawyers Guild.

575
 576 LR: What was that screening process like?
 577

578 ZS: We just, um, for CIDsA? [I nod yes] We just, um, people, you know, filled out a
 579 questionnaire I don't remember the exact things but we talked to them just to get a sense
 580 of people, I mean, some people we knew, you know, but if there were people who hadn't
 581 y—you know been that we didn't know like there could be people like, you know, kids,
 582 youth in, um, universities or colleges or people who had just come out, you know, they
 583 may have been active somewhere else or whatever neyih, and I, I don't know that there
 584 was anybody we said no to. Um I can't honestly remember but uh I remember we just 585 kind of talked there a few people I think we kind of questioned a little more cause to go
 586 for the thrill it's fine it was an amazing thrilling thing but, you know, you had to have 587 some, we wanted people to know what was going on and understand and, uh, not be, the
 588 idea was not to impose the consciousness or the will or the ideas of white middle-class
 589 U.S. on South Africa. The idea was to support people and to make sure that there weren't 590 any, um, huge violations and you know, like were I was, um there were definitely pro-
 591 apartheid folks, you know, the farmers, I was in a more rural area wh—where I served,
 592 um, and others who were definitely trying to influence uh, I, I didn't really, I didn't see

593 any violations by, um, the ANC or anybody to any signif—you know, any thing eh, eh,
594 eh that they were violating anybody's rights but we definitely had people try to influence
595 their workers and stuff, so that's we want to make sure people knew what they were 596 doing.

597
598 LR: What did it feel like to be at the first election?

599
600 ZS: (laughs)

601
602 LR: When you were actually there.

603
604 ZS: I think I answered that but it, it was a phenomenal as I said life changing experience
605 pe—I was so moved and so impressed, you know, people who had like, we stayed for the 606 counting and there was all of a sudden three South African er I think it was like three 607 South African military guys started to take out one of the guys from the AN, I think he
608 was from the ANC, but a black South African who was an observer of the counting who 609 had been challenging something or, and they're walking out with this guy, we didn't what 610 happened and so we followed just, you know, like No way you're taking this guy out and 611 he's, and he's go--, we, we tried to ask him h—what happened and what was going on
612 and he said I don't care there's no way, they killed my father, they killed my brother, they 613 killed my uncle, I mean, he, just I can't even remember may, uh, they can kill me I'm not
614 gonna let them get, do anything to mess up this, I will speak my mind and they let him go
615 and, you know, we diffused got him out and they were, but just things like that like
616 people wow, you know, what people had gone through and, and I told you before like the 617 people waiting for hours and people just the pride and, um, and we went, uh, I got there a
618 little early and we talked to the different groups the PAC [Pan Africanist Congress] and 619 the ANC and different groups and human rights groups and it, it, I just was so inspired 620 and moved and impressed and respected everybody, so yeah, it was amazing.

621
622 LR: So what were your actual responsibilities of being an election observer?

623
624 ZS: Okay, well. We weren't supposed to interfere we were just supposed to watch, but 625 that didn't happen, um, mostly we did but, you know, I, I mentioned before, I mean, we 626 saw these workers who came standing in the back of a truck and their boss w-and they 627 were like shaking really, I mean, I saw people going into the vo—voting booths, I mean,
628 some just from the sheer pride and it just, um, joy, um, and some from fear, and you
629 know, when we saw like a boss or somebody going back, or, or a worker a election
630 worker trying to tell people what to do, you know, even though we were just supposed to 631 observe we'd just say no, I mean, you cannot do that you have to and I don't know if that,
632 if we were or not supposed to do that, I think we could some but it, there was no way we 633 were gonna let that happen, so we, we observed we interceded when we thought it was,
634 um, appropriate, you know, to keep people safe to some degree, I don't know how much 635 we could keep safe, but at least let them vote in private, um, in secret and then, um at the 636 end we wrote a report that we gave to the government.

637
638 LR: How did it feel to be in Africa for the very first time?

639

640 ZS: Well that was my first time in Africa so it was amazing I love Africa, it's, it's, the 641 people are amazing, the spirit, everything about it's astounding and it's a beautiful
642 country, so yeah, thrilling, inspiring.

643

644 LR: What other responsibilities did you have while in South Africa? Did you have any 645 other?

646

647 ZS: I, I don't, I mean, I was there as an observer, like I don't know what, like.

648

649 LR: How long were you actually there like uh?

650

651 ZS: I was there like three weeks, so we went like a week before to talk to different
652 groups and see, um, you know, just hear what the cause there, I have a have a whole
653 poster of all the different parties, there was a soccer party, there's a kiss party, there's all
654 kinds of parties, and we didn't talk to all of them but we talked to a lot of the main
655 players and um, and then we, I stayed for a while, we stayed for part to for the counting
656 cause here, you know, it's the same night and there it took longer just a few days, and 657 then I stayed a little bit longer with some actuall with some of the folks I met on the trip
658 we just, uh, traveled a little bit, so I didn't have any other duties.

659

660 LR: How did you react to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission Report and 661 Conclusion?

662

663 ZS: Well, huge report lots of conclusions, um, I think it was obviously important, eh,
664 and an amazing thing to do, um, I very much believe in reconciliation and, you know, one
665 of the things in there was something about, you know, reconciliation, forgiveness are 666 important towards moving forward but there also has to be, um, uh, reparations and 667 restitutions and stuff, so all that, um, I think it's, you know, a huge thing, I, I don't know,
668 I haven't read it recently to remember all the specifics but, I mean, it was an amazing
669 thing and, um, I'm just, you know, they had it, have had them other places too in Central 670 America and Rwanda, um, and I am impressed just so, I mean, Rwanda's kind of 671 restorative justice but they're all, reconciliation is also based on restorative justice and 672 that's something I'm very involved in now, um, involved in working on the issue and 673 implementing restorative justice with adults and with youth particularly I work with 674 school and do, um, peace circles and different youth things, um, youth summits and stuff,
675 I mean, that's something else I'm involved in. But, um, so I totally believe in this, uh,
676 and I think it's important to move forward and it, it's based, you know, on the idea, it
677 comes from very indigenous kind of practices, restorative justice and reconciliation and 678 things but, um, and I'm impressed that people can do it, I mean, I'm impressed that
679 people are able to move forward with someone they know tortured and murdered
680 someone they knew or didn't know or just did it, I mean you know, my one question
681 about the truth and reconciliation is it, it only goes to people in crimes, and uh, human 682 rights violations committed in the course of Apartheid on both sides but really focusing 683 on the system of Apartheid and, uh, the perpetrators of Apartheid and the most atrocious
684 stuff was, you know, there were violations cited in there by other, by people fighting

685 Apartheid, groups fighting Apartheid but by far the most, I mean, first of all the system
 686 itself and then the most. When I, the one thing that bothers me a bit and is that it doesn't,
 687 so people who committed these horrific crimes, um, they come forward they say and then
 688 it's basically okay that's it you won't be prosecuted and there's reconciliation but what
 689 about the people who maybe stole food, um, were caught up in something where a crime
 690 is committed which is a result of having been under Apartheid system but they're not 691 covered by the truth and reconciliation in the same way, so because it's not apart of the,
 692 uh, struggle against Apartheid. That is my one issue with all of these, is that I think that 693 there has to be a way that people who did things to survive, you know, people who may 694 have committed crimes can also have a way to start over, to um, be re-integrated into 695 society and made whole again, so that's, I, I, totally support it but I would like somehow
 696 to address in aw, in South Africa or anywhere I would've liked them to address these 697 other folks.

698

699 LR: So, what event or person was the most influential in your experience as an activist?

700

701 ZS: I don't have, um, a person. I would say the people what is most influential have 702 been the grassroots on the ground people, ev—you know, so called everyday people who
 703 are struggling in their own lives and, you know, have kept up this fight, the grassroots
 704 people who have struggled for, in any of the issues I've worked on those are the people
 705 who impressed me the most where they, uh, you know, A lot of times famous people and 706 people who are leaders they do, do remarkable things and I do respect what they do, but
 707 the people that move me and inspire me the most are the most grassroots, uh, kind of 708 people.

709

710 LR: Did you have any specific grassroots people that influence you or just as a whole?

711

712 ZS: Nah, I'd say just, as a whole, I mean, there are lots and I think I go and I go wow,
 713 I'm just so impressed that these people sit and struggle, and you know, they go thr—
 714 many times in places like South Africa or Central America or anywhere people are
 715 subjected to horrors for doing it, often and they still do it, I'm just s—and, or they just it
 716 their struggle is so great, their life struggle is so great, yet they still do it, and they have a
 717 v—excuse me, a very long life perspective, you know, a lot of times, I've read interviews
 718 I think this man was in, I think it was in reference, this particular interview was in
 719 Central, in El Salvador, but you know, I've read similar things and this man said yeah I
 720 don't know what's gonna change if this is gonna even impact my life maybe it'll be my 721 child's life or my grandchild's but not to struggle is not an option because I'm looking to 722 the long distance future to make sure that things change this can't go on and the long
 723 term perspective th—that just always impressed me, yeah.

724

725 LR: What repercussions did you experience for your involvement in this Movement, if 726 any?

727

728 ZS: I don't think, I really, I mean, I gained so much. I'm lucky, you know, I have a
 729 family that's supportive, friends, um, I have, was in the kind of work that I was able to do

730 it okay without there being a big issue, you know, I had to juggle it but, yeah I had no
731 repercussions.

732

733 LR: How has being active in the Movement changed your life?

734

735 ZS: Um, in the Anti-Apartheid Movement?

736

737 LR: Mhm. Or the one struggle (we chuckle).

738

739 ZS: I th—I mean, i—it, it inspires me it has helped me keep my eye on the prize as they
740 say to, um, it helps make me who I am hopefully better, made me hopefully a better
741 person and, and it also helps remind me to k—you know, to keep pursuing it that things
742 can change, I mean, there are new struggles in South Africa and that's always a
743 frustration but, um, it, it nurtured me and it helped make me the person I, hope to be and 744 struggle to, uh, strive to reach to become.

745

746 LR: How did participating in the Movement help you grow as a person?

747

748 ZS: Um, I think I kind of answered it it's sort of the same question, I, I gained
749 knowledge, respect, uh, wi—some wisdom, I mean, I'm not I don't claim to be wise but 750 it contributes to whatever wisdom I have, um, I learned how, you know, a lot about
751 organizing, I learned a lot about different people and cultures, and it just helped me grow
752 in everyday.

753

754 LR: How do you feel that your involvement has made a difference?

755

756 ZS: Um, I think just being involved is necessary, I don't know what difference I
757 specifically made, I am part of a Movement and that's where I make a difference, um, to 758 not add your voice in some way to protest to struggle is to, to support whatever it is, um,
759 your t—you know, whatever struggle whatever you're opposing whatever you disagree
760 with, um, so I think if I hadn't I would've been saying I support it and I didn't, I you
761 know, not in anyway sense so I, I don't think that I personally, I, I don't but I think it's 762 being part of the struggle is what being part of the Movement is what was important.

763

764 LR: So, what was, um, your biggest contribution to the Movement?

765

766 ZS: Was being part of the Movement.

767

768 LR: How would you have what would you have done differently?

769

770 ZS: Oh, I mean, I, you know, we're talking many years ago in part, but I mean, there
771 sure there's things I would handle differently, do differently, um, and but they're all part
772 of the growth process, so I mean, one thing I think that I would do more now is reach out
773 to more of the different, um you know, there were different groups in, in the Anti-
774 Apartheid struggle and I there was some reaching out but I think that I would do even 775 more in that and, um you know, the different groups and, and I think that sometimes we

776 alienate and marginalize each other and I would work harder against that but, you know, I
 777 figure I learned and grew from everything, so, I don't have a s—other than that, I don't 778 h—that would be the biggest difference I think.

779
 780 LR: What challenges does South Africa face today?

781
 782 ZS: Ugh, South Africa has lots of challenges today, um, you know, economic there's 783 still huge issues of poverty and housing and, um you know, there there've been this big,
 784 um, major increase I think in the middle class but still the poorest people are still 785 extremely poor, um, there is still so much to be done in all the, um, in all the different,
 786 you know, communities that are just devastatingly poor and there aren't just the 787 opportunities that there should be and there's just so much and there's all kinds of 788 struggles around AIDS which are, um, getting somewhat better, so there's there are a lot
 789 of struggles in South Africa now and, um, particularly for the poorest and the most the 790 people who are most disenfranchised.

791
 792 LR: What else can be done to help South Africa with their challenges?

793
 794 ZS: Well, I mean, I believe that what, what we in the U.S. and particularly myself as a
 795 white person in the U.S. need to do is to support struggles within South Africa, I'm not 796 there to impose my will on, oh this is how you should do things and that, so what I think
 797 is important is to find groups and people who are, you know, who are struggling there
 798 who are, um, working and building and doing all kinds of things and support them.

799
 800 LR: What activisms are you still involved in up to this date?

801
 802 ZS: Well, I still do I am active on Palestinian issues on Anti-War issues, um,
 803 occasionally something comes up on Southern Africa and I support it but I, you know,
 804 would like to get more into that again, I do, um, work on restorative justice, I, I, uh,
 805 immigration, I'll do some stuff to support groups that are doing it, and um, workers'
 806 rights here, so I do bits of stuff, work with kids, um, so yeah, Did I say Palestine, yeah.

807
 808 LR: So is there anything else that we didn't get to that you would like to share at all?

809
 810 ZS: I can't think of anything.

811
 812 LR: All right.

813
 814 ZS: Can you think of anything?

815
 816 LR: I don't know, I don't think there was any—

817
 818 ZS: Well, you know what if you think of anything call me.

819
 820 LR: All right, I will.

821

822 ZS: Thank you.

823

824 LR: Thank you for sharing your story.

825

826 ZS: Well, thank you for interviewing me.
