An Introduction To The GRADUATE DIVISION

A SMALL, SELECTIVE, QUALITY
GRADUATE PROGRAM—A PLACE OF VITALITY, MATURE SCHOLARSHIP, AND INNOVATIVE PROFESSIONAL PERFORMANCE.

The Graduate Division of Columbia College offers the Master's degree in seven disciplines. Study in each of these programs combines a strong conceptual emphasis with practical professional education designed for students with mature interests who want opportunity to exert their individuality and creativity to vigorous and demanding measures.

All of Columbia's programs have a specialness. ARTS, ENTERTAINMENT & MEDIA MANAGEMENT responds directly to the career opportunities of the "media and communications explosion." Columbia's graduate education in CREATIVE WRITING/ THE TEACHING OF WRITING is a sophisticated workshop for writers of fiction and non-fiction and an opportunity for teachers to master the celebrated techniques of the "Story Workshop" method. The DANCE/MOVEMENT THERAPY program integrates theoretical, clinical, and experiential approaches to dance and movement in the field of psychotherapy. The Master of Fine Arts program in FILM & VIDEO prepares students for professional careers in film and video production, college teaching, theatrical and non-theatrical fiction film, documentary film and video, animation, and independent filmmaking. The program in INTERDISCIPLINARY ARTS EDUCATION is meant for teachers of arts subjects and others who will work in galleries, museum education, community arts centers—wherever the arts are used. Studies in Public Affairs JOURNALISM develop professional investigative and interpretive skills through first-hand reportorial experience in Chicago and the state and national capitals. The Master of Fine Arts and Master of Arts degree programs in PHOTOGRAPHY prepare students to be both fine artists and successful professionals.

The graduate faculty is an assembly of talented teachers—distinguished artists and leading professionals. Education is tutorial, small group, and always attentively individual. All of Columbia's graduate departments have exceptional professional facilities and equipment readily accessible to student use.

The life of the College, its vital presence in the City's cultural activity and human service, and its downtown neighborhood of major cultural institutions create a stimulating artistic and professional climate for student work. Literally, the City is Columbia's campus.

Columbia College is accredited through the Master's degree-granting level by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools.

Master Of Arts In ARTS, ENTERTAINMENT & MEDIA MANAGEMENT

PROGRAM

The Master's degree program in Arts, Entertainment & Media Management provides a core curriculum in business and management coordinated with special courses in the following areas:

- Computer Management for the Arts
- Media Management
- The Music Business
- Performing Arts Management
- Visual Arts Management

The program of study is designed to prepare students with:

- The skills to successfully manage or own an arts-related commercial or non-profit organization.
- The ability to cope with the technological, political, economic, and societal factors that affect both the aesthetics and the business of the arts.
- An understanding of the interaction of artists, performers, and writers; managers, agents, producers, promoters, and entrepreneurs; new and traditional media and venues; and the final arbiter, the audience.

The AEMM graduate curriculum reflects the professional experiences of the faculty—working artists-performers or successful managers-executives of leading arts, entertainment, and media organizations.

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

In addition to fulfilling the general requirements for admission to the Graduate Division, applicants in Arts, Entertainment & Media Management must include within their self-assessment essay a discussion of their work experience and career aspirations—indicating the ways in which this advanced study will extend their professional opportunities.

Geographic circumstances permitting, an interview with the AEMM admissions committee will be the final step in the review process.

PREREQUISITES Experience with personal computers including knowledge of electronic spreadsheet and relational data base software; completion of basic accounting with a minimum grade of B or satisfactory score on the AEMM Accounting Proficiency test. The accounting course may be taken at any accredited 2- or 4-year college or at Columbia, either before or during the student's first semester of graduate study. Additional prerequisites may be necessary, as determined during the admissions review process.

CREATIVE WRITING/THE TEACHING OF WRITING

PROGRAMS

CREATIVE WRITING

The Creative Writing Program is designed to help students develop their fiction writing ability. Degree candidates are expected to produce work of publishable quality during the course of study and complete a book-length manuscript. In addition to Story Workshop fiction and prose forms classes, the program offers courses in young adult fiction, science fiction, researching and writing historical fiction, creative non-fiction, adaptation of prose fiction to script, independent study in playwriting, and new historical approaches to the study of famous writers' writing processes.

The Columbia College fiction writing program's annual publication Hair Trigger has twice won first prize as the best college literary magazine in the country. The 1987 National Book Award winner for fiction is a graduate of the Columbia College fiction writing program. Intensive training in writing develops crucial problem-solving skills for a variety of careers such as advertising, magazine editing, scriptwriting, journalism, and other writing-related fields.

THE TEACHING OF WRITING

Teaching of Writing degree candidates are frequently employed teachers who want to develop their writing and teaching ability, as well as newcomers to the field. The program prepares its graduates to teach both expository and fiction writing at the college and secondary levels. Students explore the close relationship between their teaching ability and the development of their own writing. The Story Workshop method is a uniquely successful approach to the teaching of writing, providing specific and flexible techniques in composition, creative writing, remediation, and writing laboratories.

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

In addition to fulfilling the general requirements for admission to the Graduate Division, applicants in both Writing programs must submit 30 pages of manuscript. Approximately one-half should be expository prose and one-half creative writing. Up to five pages of the creative writing sample may be poetry.

The Columbia College undergraduate course Fiction Writing I is required of all students and must be completed before or during the first semester. A reasonable background in Literature and the Humanities is also expected. This should include a major period novel course, a major period poetry course, and a Shakespeare course, or the equivalent. Admitted students may take undergraduate make-up courses in these areas concurrently with graduate enrollment.

Master Of Arts In DANCE/ MOVEMENT THERAPY

PROGRAM

This program is designed to develop quality practitioners in the field of Dance/Movement Therapy. It integrates theoretical, clinical and experiential approaches, stressing the psychodynamics of the self, of individuals, and of groups. Students are trained in various approaches to treatment and learn to apply these to a variety of populations.

Students entering the program should have a background in the behavioral sciences and dance—particularly in good modern technique. Columbia College has an excellent Dance department where students may continue developing their skills in a wide variety of dance forms. There should also be a strong desire to become a therapist in the field of mental health.

Graduate Dance/Movement therapists work in all areas of mental health—hospitals, special schools and clinics—as clinicians, researchers and educators. Dance/movement therapists work with all types of populations; such as emotionally disturbed adults, children and adolescents, as well as retarded persons, geriatric patients and people with learning disabilities.

Our faculty is composed of highly qualified professionals in their fields of expertise, from our dance/movement therapy, psychology and dance departments.

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

In addition to fulfilling the general requirements for admission to the Graduate Division, applicants in Dance/Movement Therapy should include within the self-assessment essay a summary of any dance-movement therapy experiences (courses, workshops, etc.) in which they have participated. Experience in teaching, performing, or choreography should also be mentioned.

A personal interview and group movement assessment will be a part of the application review process.

Master Of Fine Arts In FILM AND VIDEO

PROGRAM

The Master of Fine Arts program in Film and Video provides sophisticated training in the visual media for those interested in careers in cinematography, directing, screenwriting, editing, and producing. Film and videotape are used interchangeably in response to the evolving demands of art and industry.

This program is one of the first to synthesize the essentials of film and video production. It is designed for the student who is interested in pursuing production theory and practice under the direction of a faculty of working professionals.

Work in both fiction and documentary is required, prior to defining a choice of emphasis for the Thesis project.

Students will complete two short films or videotapes as preparation for work on the Thesis, which will take the form of a fifteen-minute production.

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

In addition to fulfilling the general requirements for admission to the Graduate Division, applicants in Film and Video must also submit a sample of their work which suggests their potential for work in film and video. Applications are encouraged from students who have demonstrated conceptual capacity in other fields and whose previous training might provide appropriate subject matter for visual treatment.

With the understanding that interests and preferences will evolve during graduate study, the department asks that each applicant discuss subject matter which might be treated in the thesis project.

An interview with the graduate faculty of the department is a required part of the admission process.

Master Of Arts In INTERDISCIPLINARY ARTS EDUCATION

PROGRAM

This program is designed for professional artists, arts educators, performers or therapists interested in career development and personal growth.

Students begin the program by examining the relationships among the visual, acoustical, literary, and performing arts, as revealed in both their conceptual similarities and differences and their roles in society and education. Students may then focus on arts entrepreneurship, performance, or curriculum and program development, as well as their own art forms. The interdisciplinary approach offers artists in all five mediums (art, music, dance, drama, and words) the rare opportunity to collaborate with one another while providing a broad, aesthetically sophisticated background in the function of the arts.

The program is a five-semester sequence with all courses offered evenings and weekends. It is intended to give participants the courage to create new programs and the skills to implement them.

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

In addition to fulfilling the general requirements for admission to the Graduate Division, applicants in Interdisciplinary Arts Education should have an undergraduate degree in one of the arts, or in arts education, or a background in education and a strong personal interest in the arts. Applicants should include within the self-assessment essay a description of their professional goals (e.g., curriculum development, arts administration, performance, etc.). Applicants should also include a sample of their work (slides, tapes, curricula, etc.). Geographic circumstances permitting, an interview with the graduate faculty of the program will be a part of the application review process.

Master Of Arts In JOURNALISM

PROGRAM

The Master's degree program in Journalism is a carefully designed professional course of study that can be completed in one year or extended over two or more years. Qualified candidates are trained in the specialized techniques of reporting public affairs—local, state, and national. The aim is to prepare aspiring as well as experienced journalists to assume responsible positions with leading print and broadcast news organizations.

Under the direction of successful professional editors, this program combines principles and practice in an innovative curriculum. After providing an essential academic base in practical political science, the program stresses first-hand reportorial experience—in the living urban laboratory of Chicago's metropolitan area and during residence in Springfield, Illinois, the state capital, and in Washington, D.C.

Internship opportunities with government and civic agencies, in the offices of legislators, and with print and broadcast media add an insider's perspective, helping to develop career opportunities for insightful interpretive and investigative public affairs reporters.

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

In addition to fulfilling the general requirements for admission to the Graduate Division, applicants in Journalism should have an undergraduate degree or major in print or broadcast journalism or a related field. Applicants may also be admitted on the basis of professional experience or acceptable journalism training at a liberal arts college. Those without adequate journalism training may be asked to complete prerequisite course work before beginning the graduate program.

All applicants must submit examples of their writing, a self-assessment essay, and three letters of recommendation. Geographic circumstances permitting, an interview with the graduate faculty of the Journalism program will be part of the application review process.

FACULTY

ERIC LUND Director of the Graduate Journalism Program. B.S.J., Northwestern. Former political and urban affairs reporter; editor, Evanston (IL) Review; assistant managing editor/news, administration, Chicago Daily News; former member of graduate faculty, Medill School of Journalism, Northwestern.

SPECIAL FACILITIES

The Columbia Journalism Department facilities include a newsroom with a computerized word processing system. The College is near federal, state, county, and city offices, the headquarters of governmental and educational associations, Chicago's major newspapers and broadcasting stations, and public and specialized libraries. Special events and lectures regularly bring prominent journalists to Columbia, such as Jimmy Breslin, Diann Burns, Orianna Fallaci, Seymour Hersh, Dick Locher, Carl Rowan, Mike Royko, Warner Saunders, Neil and Susan Sheehan, Judy Woodruff and Pam Zekman.

Master Of Arts And Master Of Fine Arts In PHOTOGRAPHY

PROGRAMS

The Master of Arts and Master of Fine Arts programs in Photography combine aesthetic and expressive development with advanced technical training, preparing students both as fine artists and as successful professionals. Courses in advanced photographic techniques are taken alongside graduate seminars and independent study under the supervision of the graduate faculty, one of the most distinguished groups of teaching photographers in the country.

Within the Master's degree program, students may choose a structured concentration in Gallery Practices. This specialized curriculum includes coursework in museum and curatorial practices, a two-semester exhibit production seminar, and a practicum/internship project.

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

In addition to fulfilling the general requirements for admission to the Graduate Division, applicants in Photography must also submit a portfolio of 20 original photographic prints for evaluation, or an equivalent body of work in some other medium (painting, film, print, etc.). Students who do not have a background in art or photography will be considered for admission but will be required to make up undergraduate deficiencies in these areas as determined by the graduate faculty.

Application For ADMISSION

APPLICATION PROCEDURE

Application forms are available from the Graduate Division Office. Spaces in Columbia's graduate programs are limited, and early application is encouraged. Applicants seeking admission to the Fall semester should see that their credentials file is complete by not later than August 15 (June 15 for international students). Those wishing to be considered for institutional financial-aid awards must complete their files by mid-April. Several programs will also accept applications for Spring admission; in this case, credentials files should be complete by not later than January 1 (November 15 for international students).

Each graduate program has specific admissions requirements which are summarized on the general application form. However, all applicants must provide the credentials listed below.

■ A completed graduate application form, dated and signed, accompanied by a non-refundable application fee of $25.00.

■ A self-assessment in essay form, approximately 3-5 typewritten pages. This should describe the applicant's personal goals, career aspirations, and professional strengths.

■ Official transcripts from each college or university which the applicant has attended. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution is required, and an overall grade point average of 3.0/4.0 (= B) is expected.

■ Three letters of recommendation in support of the application. These should be from professional colleagues or supervisors in a position to judge the applicant's past performance as it bears on the capacity for successful work at the graduate level in the program selected.

The Graduate Division encourages but does not require an admissions interview. Applicants should be aware, however, that interview requirements vary among the seven graduate programs.

At the applicant's option, the results of standardized tests such as the Graduate Record Examinations may be included in the credentials file. The absence of such test scores will not adversely affect the applicant's chances of acceptance.

Applicants whose native language is not English and who have not previously attended a U.S. college or university must take the TOEFL exam (Test Of English as a Foreign Language) and arrange for an official score report to be sent to the Graduate Division. The TOEFL Institution Code for Columbia College is 1135.

APPLICATION REVIEW

Evaluation of applications and selection of students is the joint responsibility of the Graduate Division and the Committee on Admissions in the applicant's program. When the Committee has concluded its review, normally within three weeks following completion of all requirements, the Graduate Division mails formal written notice of the admissions decision.

REGISTRATION

Successful applicants are instructed in their letter of admission to confirm their intention to enroll. To guarantee a place in registration, the Graduate Division requires a Confirmation Deposit of $225.00 or evidence of alternate arrangements made with the Bursar. The Confirmation Deposit is applied to the tuition charges for the first semester.

Graduate students who can devote full time to their studies usually enroll for 9 to 12 credit hours each regular semester. Students holding a tuition-waiver Follett Fellowship must carry a minimum courseload of 9 credit hours during the semester(s) for which the Fellowship is awarded.

Part-time students in the Graduate Division enroll for 6 to 8 credit hours each regular semester, or a minimum of two courses. Some programs limit graduate students to a maximum of 3 semesters on part-time status.

TUITION AND FEES

For the 1990-1991 academic year, graduate tuition is $239.00 per credit hour. A number of graduate courses, particularly in advanced technical areas, require additional class fees; these are published in the Schedule of Classes for each semester.

All tuition charges and fees for the semester, less the prepaid $225.00 Confirmation Deposit required of newly-admitted students, are due and payable at the time of registration. Time payment plans may be arranged with the Bursar during the registration process. A five percent discount on tuition cost is

During the first four weeks of the semester, if a student officially withdraws from Columbia, a portion of that semester's tuition charges is refundable, according to the following schedule:

■ 1st week	100% tuition refund
■ 2nd week	80% tuition refund
■ 3rd week	60% tuition refund
■ 4th week	40% tuition refund

Because this policy is subject to change, students are advised to contact the Bursar's Office for current information.

available for payment in full within the first week of the semester.

Graduate Degree REQUIREMENTS

In addition to the credit-hour Degree Requirements specified individually for each graduate program, the following Graduate Division policies govern the award of the Master's degree:

■ In Master of Arts degree programs, a maximum of 6 credit hours may be earned through any combination of Transfer and Credit by Examination; for the Master of Fine Arts, the limit is 12 credit hours.

■ A maximum of 6 credit hours of coursework with a grade of C may be applied toward fulfillment of the degree requirements; several programs apply more rigorous performance standards.

■ Coursework with a grade lower than C is not applied toward fulfillment of the degree requirements.

■ All candidates for a Master's degree will be required to present a final cumulative grade point average of at least 3.0 (=B) for graduate coursework.

■ All candidates for a Master's degree will have submitted an acceptable final Thesis Project.

■ All M.A. degree requirements must be completed within five years of initial graduate enrollment. For the M.F.A. degree, the candidate must complete all requirements within seven years.

Graduate Student SERVICES

THE COLLEGE AND THE CITY

Columbia College is a modern, urban institution whose main building is located on Chicago's lakefront, at 600 South Michigan Avenue. Other facilities include the 11th Street Theater, the Dance Center at 4730 North Sheridan Road, and a newly renovated building at 623 South Wabash Avenue.

The setting of the College, in a downtown neighborhood of major cultural institutions, creates a stimulating artistic and professional climate. Columbia's graduate students come to work and study in an environment of vitality and scholarship, with the City as their campus. The College is convenient to all public transportation.

ADVISING AND COUNSELING

An academic advisor from the graduate faculty is assigned to each graduate student by the department in which he or she has enrolled. Advisors assist students in developing programs of study, plan for each semester's registration, and monitor progress toward the degree. Students are invited to request particular faculty members as their academic advisors.

Both the Office of Financial Aid and the Office of the Bursar have assigned staff members to serve the special financial needs of Columbia's graduate students. The Graduate Division office is a primary source of information relative to administrative matters.

Finally, all of the faculty members with whom the student comes in contact, as well as the Director/Chairperson of the student's program, serve a continuous counseling function.

LIBRARY

The Columbia College Library is located on three floors of the main building at 600 South Michigan Avenue. In addition to its general collection, the library also houses the George S. Lurie Memorial Collection of books and library resources on Art, Photography, and Film as well as a center containing the Arts and Entertainment Management Collection. Finally, the Columbia College Script Collection is one of the country's largest for motion picture and television scripts.

Library facilities include a slide collection and slide-viewing room, as well as a film and videotape viewing area, where graduate students may screen the College's collection of motion pictures and videotapes.

Columbia College maintains an agreement with Roosevelt University, one block north of our main building, which provides Columbia students full use of Roosevelt's 350,000-volume library and its services.

GRADUATE PLACEMENT

The staff of Columbia's Counseling Services Office provides many services which are of practical value to graduate students. These include counseling in resume writing, assistance in clarifying career goals, and workshops in interviewing skills and self-presentation, as well as an intensive program of career counseling.

In addition, the many practicing professionals on the graduate faculty provide an informal but effective service in graduate placement.
